GARDNER BLOC OUSTED FROM COUNTY GROUP

McFarland Supporters Take Control Of Party, Drop 19 From Executive Body.

COMMITTEE CUT TO 31

John Hess Elected Central Chairman, Defeating Shelby Man By 2 Votes.

Old line Republican leaders were back at the helm of the party in Richland county today, as the result of a "purge" at the central committee's organization meeting Saturday night.

Victims of the "purge" and out of the picture were those executive committee members who supported R. B. Gardner in his unsuccessful effort to win election at the primary as 17th district state central committeeman. Gardner was defeated by former Mayor Earl A. McFarland, whose backers are now in control of the party in the county.

Size of Committee Reduced.

The removal of the Gardner bloc from the committee was accomplished by reducing the executive committee membership from 50 to 31.

John Hess, committeeman from the First ward, was elected central committee chairman by two votes over Charles Swanger, Shelby barber. The vote, taken by secret ballot at the suggestion of McFarland, was 29 to 27.

New Chairman Only 32.

A comparative newcomer in politics, Hess is only 32 years old and has served on the central committee for four years. He was a former bookkeeper in the city sewer department, having been appointed by McFarland when he was mayor.

Swanger was chosen vice chairman of the committee by acclama-

2 Killed As Subway Trains Collide In New York.

An explosion which followed the crash sent clouds of black smoke billowing up through sidewalk air vents.

An ambulance surgeon finally suggested in freeing the trapped motorman but only after he had amputated his leg, working by the light of acetylene torches and with the aid of Mayor F. H. La Guardia who arrived shortly after the crash.

2 QUIT CABINET

France's Plan To Abolish 40-Hour Work Week Hit.

PARIS —(AP)— Two of Premier Edouard Daladier's cabinet ministers resigned suddenly today, bringing on a crisis over the premier's plan to abolish the 40-hour week in French industry.

Ludovic Frossard, minister of public works, and Paul Ramadier, minister of labor, gave up their posts in a surprise move.

The premier met the threat to his ministry's life of patching up his cabinet within two hours, naming deputy Anatole de Monzie, his close friend, minister of public works and deputy Charles Pomaret minister of labor.

Both new ministers belong to the same party as those who resigned, the small socialist union group.

'Tired of Living', Outlaw Hamilton Tells Captors

Bedraggled Desperado, Brother of Notorious Gunman, Captured With Pal; Asks for Death Sentence.

(By United Press)

DALLAS, Texas—Outlaw Floyd Hamilton said today that he wanted to end his life the same way his notorious brother, Raymond, did his—in the electric chair.

He was through, he said, tired of living, preferred the chair to a long prison term. The outlaw whose name had topped the list of those sought by the department of justice and whose reputation had come to equal those of many of his predecessors in southwestern banditry, Clyde Barrow, "Pretty Boy" Floyd and Raymond Hamilton, was weak, passive and defeated.

7 Robbery Charges.

"We expect to file seven or more robbery charges against him," Inspector Will Fritz said. "The death sentence seldom is given for robbery in Texas, but under the law it can be."

Hamilton and his pal, Ted Walters, since their escape from the Montague county jail in March, have been accused of scores of robberies, kidnapings, shootings.

The long hunt for Hamilton and Walters ended with unexpected swiftness. The desperadoes were unarmed, unkempt, bedraggled, hungry. Walters was hiding in the weeds of a vacant lot. Hamilton was captured in the Trinity river bottoms. They had come here by freight train from Arkansas where the search had become too hot. They asked Willie Marshall, 30, to tell Hamilton's wife that they needed help. Police arrested Marshall when he appeared at her home.

Hamilton, although shot in the leg, first slipped through a net of federal agents, but police arrested him a few hours later.

Dewey Scores Again, Witness Says Officer Had Connection With Schultz Gang.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—Racket Buster Thomas E. Dewey scored a point at the "lottery trial" of James J. Hines today when, over defense objections, Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora admitted testimony linking a former police officer to operations of the Dutch Schultz policy syndicate.

The testimony was drawn from Alexander Pompez, Cuban policy "banker," who told the "blue ribbon jury last week that he had been forced to contribute $10,000 to the Democratic campaign fund in the 1933 city election.

When he took the stand today, Pompez was reminded by Assistant District Attorney Charles P. Grimes that he had testified concerning a raid on his "bank" in the fall of 1932. He was asked whether there had been another raid, and answered that his "drop station" on Edgecomb avenue had

Pet Saves Child From Drowning

Dog's Commotion Brings Neighbor Who Rescues Girl From Pool.

The story of how "Chipper" a pet terrier, saved two-year-old Judith Maxwell, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Maxwell, 103 Parkwood boulevard, from drowning in a neighbor's lily pool last Friday came to light today.

"Chipper", a four-year-old wire haired terrier has been little Judith's companion since her birth. And when Judith fell in the pool, he raised such a fuss at the pool that he attracted a neighbor who came to the rescue of the child, lying on the bottom of the pool, in four feet of water.

Today the pool was being filled in by the owners.

* * *

Judith was playing outdoors Friday. "Chipper" was along, as usual. He's been the child's inseparable companion since she had learned to walk.

The child and dog wandered around the yard. But Judith was apparently attracted by the reflection in the water of the pool. She got too close to the edge and fell in.

Only a few seconds later, a neighbor working in an upstairs bedroom was attracted by the dog, who in great frenzy was rushing around the pool and whining.

The neighbor saw the tiny hand and arm extended from the surface of the water and rushed from the house. She quickly dragged the child from water.

Judith was treated by her father for shock and today was again playing with her pet unmindful of the near tragedy.

* * *

The accident occurred two doors from the Maxwell home. Mrs. Maxwell was unaware of the near tragedy until neighbors brought the drenched child into the house.

The rescue had been effected with such speed by the quick thinking neighbor that there was scarcely any water in the child's lungs.

* * *

The lily pool was something new in the life of little Judith because she had only lived in the neighborhood three weeks. Her parents had moved to the Parkwood boulevard address on Aug. 1. They formerly lived at 44 Western avenue.

NEW LIGHT UP

5-Way Signal Directs Park Avenue, Marion Traffic.

A new five-way light installed at a cost of $600 today was controlling traffic at the intersection of Park avenue, Bowman street, Sturges avenue and Marion avenue.

And for the first time, city officials said, Marion avenue traffic entered the intersection with a minimum of difficulty.

When Marion avenue traffic is given the right of way, traffic is stopped on Park avenue, Bowman street and Sturges avenue. When halted on Marion avenue, through traffic is maintained on either Park avenue or Bowman street and Sturges avenue.

The signal was purchased by the city at a cost of $350 two months ago. Installation costs including a new steel pole, were figured at an additional $250.

EX-ORGANIZER OF COMMUNISTS MAKES CHARGE

Matthews Says Splitting Of Democratc Party Major Objective Of Soviets.

CITES N. Y. CAMPAIGN

Declares Roosevelt's Move To Defeat O'Connor Plays In Party's Hands.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—James B. Matthews, former communist organizer, charged before the Dies committee today that certain immediate objectives of President Roosevelt's administration are identical to those of the Communist party.

He said that a phase of the immediate communist program is the defeat of Rep. John J. O'Connor, D., N. Y. President Roosevelt also has demanded O'Connor's defeat because he is an "outstanding obstructionist."

Prepares 'Red' List.

Matthews, in resuming testimony before the house committee investigating unAmerican activities, informed Chairman Martin Dies, D., Tex., he would not be able to present a list of 200 government officials affiliated with the Communist party as he had promised. He said he had been unable to complete the list in time for today's hearing.

As he returned to the witness stand, he was asked by Rep. J. P. Thomas, R., N. J., whether "the program of the New Deal party is in any way written by the communists."

"I wouldn't say that," Matthews replied. "But I think that from reading communist literature it is clear that certain immediate objectives of the administration coincide with those of the Communist party.

Matthews charged that the Communist party is making a deliberate effort to "drive a wedge" between the liberal and conservative elements of the Democratic party.

Includes Republicans.

He asserted that although splitting of the Democratic party "is the major objective of the Communist party, the splitting tactics are by no means confined to the Democratic party."

"In certain sections," he added,

Hungarian Admiral Hitler's Guest at Nazi Fleet Review

KIEL, Germany—(U.P.)—Admiral Nicholas De Horthy, regent of Hungary, reviewed the new German battle fleet today as the state guest of Adolf Hitler and the German nation.

Horthy arrived with his wife at 9:18 a. m., after an all-night train journey across Germany.

The first event of the day was the chirstening of the new 10,000-ton cruiser Prince Eugen by Mrs. Horthy, with Dr. Arthur Von Seyss-Inquart, provincial governor of Austria by whose absorption Germany made Hungary her next door neighbor, as chief speaker.

Horthy had been welcomed to Germany yesterday at the Austro-Hungarian frontier and at Vienna.

Jelly-Making Season's Here So Time's Ripe for News-Journal Jelly Contest

Event, Open to Anyone In County, to Be Held Sept. 8-9.

Let's talk about jelly.

Why? Two reasons: this is jelly-making time and every housewife knows a thrill of satisfaction at the sight of rows of clear, sparkling jelly on the shelves; and then there's The News-Journal jelly contest.

The News-Journal, with the American Legion auxiliary as co-sponsor, will hold a jelly contest Sept. 8 and 9, at the Ohio Public Service company office, South Park street, with a number of highly desirable prizes for the winners, including one of those Westinghouse electric roasters.

The contest will be judged on the basis established by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and which is issued by county fair boards.

The contest is open to anyone in Richland county, and women and girls do not have exclusive rights to it—any man who can make a better glass of jelly than any woman in the contest will certainly get the prize.

Most women make jelly for the very fundamental purpose of "spread" for the family's bread, turning out a few glasses each year for "extra special" occasions when there will be company.

The contest is for this "extra special" jelly; the kind that looks like the center of a clear, sparkling precious stone, when held up to the sunlight. As a matter of fact, clearness and color will count for 20 per cent —10 per cent each—in the judging.

7,000 Dead or Wounded In Week-End Spanish Clashes

FRANCO TRIES AGAIN TO PUT FOE TO FLIGHT

Government Claims Victory As Troops Continue To Hold River Sector.

(By United Press)

HENDAYE, French-Spanish Frontier—The government claimed a great victory today—despite nationalist assertions to the contrary—for forces holding out on the Ebro river front against one of the most violent offensives in months.

The insurgents wearily started the fourth day of attack still hoping to drive the loyalists from positions southwest of the river which they captured more than a month ago, but without success.

Losses Tremendous.

The losses on both sides were tremendous. The nationalists estimated that government losses were close to 6,000 dead and wounded. The loyalists did not estimate insurgent losses, but claimed that they had lost 1,000 men in a single charge. They said it was a personal defeat for Generalissimo Francisco Franco because he was directing the counter-offensive.

Franco chose the toughest and deepest sector of the loyalist lines and was using scores of tanks, hundreds of airplanes and his best fighters—Moroccan troops and foreign legionnaires. Strong loyalist divisions had dug in on a 10-mile front from the Sierra Pandos, south of Gandesa, to Villalba de Los Arcos, to the north. In the last month the loyalists had fortified heavily. Hundreds of holes were blasted in mountain rocks where machine guns were planted. Only tanks could withstand their fire. Airplane bombs had little affect.

A nationalist communique asserted that Franco's fighters captured "important positions" in the mountainous zone northwest and southwest of Gandesa.

British Peace Plan Collapse Nears.

LONDON—(U.P.)—Spain resumed its place at the top of the diplomatic danger list today. Hope of removing foreign "volunteers" from the civil war had all but vanished and it appeared that British and French delations with Italy were about to enter a period of serious tension.

Analysis by the British and French foreign offices of a Spanish Nationalist note on the international plan to evacuate foreign troops from the war showed that the Nationalists had rejected almost all its proposals of any importance.

Vets of Foreign Wars 'Take Over' State's Capital

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Nearly 30,000 strong, Veterans of Foreign Wars from the 48 states and several foreign countries took over the city today for the annual national encampment and left an amazed populace gasping at a thousand strange antics which left a carnival-like atmosphere.

Although thousands of the veterans have been in town since Saturday, convention activities were not slated to get underway until this morning when National Chaplain Edwin A. Shearer was to give the invocation in Columbus auditorium.

The joint opening session was to be held at 10 a. m. with Governor Davey and other dignitaries present.

The highlight of the serious side of the day's program was scheduled for 3:30 p. m. with the dedication of a plaque in the state house yard commemorating the founding of the American Veterans of Foreign Wars.

FOE'S TROUBLES CHEER A. F. OF L.

Leaders Meeting In Quarterly Parley Hear of Demand for Wagner Act Changes.

(INS Staff Correspondent)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — Jubilation over claimed dissension within the ranks of John L. Lewis' CIO and a demand for changes in the Wagner labor act were manifest by American Federation of Labor leaders attending the opening session of the executive council's quarterly meeting today.

Federation officers here to draft the annual report to the A. F. of L. national convention at Houston, Tex., in October reportedly intend to study what purportedly are confidential reports on internal troubles in some CIO unions. Among those to be scrutinized, it was said, are the United Auto Workers union, the Textile Workers union, and the National Maritime union.

Discouraged by the failure of past peace moves, A. F. of L. leaders were not expected to again seek a truce with the Lewis forces. Still, recent events in which the CIO has figured prominently will be studied.

In their drive for what they regard as a more equitable and democratic labor law, the A. F. of L. leaders probably will urge that the national labor relations board be striped of some of its judicial powers. The executive council also was expected to consider extension of the social security act to farmers and domestics, an earlier starting date for insurance payments to the aged, simplified unemployment compensation laws and the elimination of geographic differentials from the federal wages-and-hours act.

LOVE LETTERS SEEN AS CLUE IN HUNT FOR MISSING LAWYER

(INS Staff Correspondent)

STOCKBRIDGE, Mass. — A sheaf of love letters written by women in various parts of the country to missing William O. Waldron, 61, attorney, landscape artist and ex-convict, were studied by officials today.

Authorities hoped to find some clue which might indicate his destination when he left Thursday in a new coupe, or some hint which might lead to an explanation of how a fortune of his dead wife, estimated as high as $75,000, was dissipated.

Waldron is wanted on a charge of larceny from the estate of his wife, Mrs. Edith Blair Waldron, 68, who died suddenly last May 20 and whose body was exhumed on orders of the district attorney. Vital organs were sent to Boston for examination by state police chemists.

The love letters came from sections, one as far west as Lincoln, Neb. Others came from New York, and one, from Wallingford, Conn., was termed "interesting" by investigators. Waldron served three years in the New Hampshire state prison after he was found guilty in 1929 of fleecing a Derry, N. H., school teacher out of $8,200.

The warrant on which Waldron is being sought charges him with larceny of $7,000 from the estate of his wife who inherited a fortune from the late Mrs. Mary Wyman, one of Stockbridge's wealthiest women. Waldron allegedly sold for $2,000 valuable silverware and household objects valued at $7,000.

EX-TEACHER DIES

Peter L. Willett Was 72 and Native of Shiloh.

SHILOH—Peter L. Willett, 72, who taught in Richland county rural schools for 24 years, died at his home here this morning after an illness of several months.

With the exception of five years spent in Nova, Mr. Willett had lived his entire life in and near Shiloh. In addition to teaching, he once operated a farm near here, ran a hardware and implement store and headed a company which manufactured a device, on which he held the patent, to clean seed.

HITS PROPOSED MARYLAND VISIT BY PRESIDENT

Senator Declares He'll Fight 'Invasion of State's Rights' By Chief Executive.

(By United Press)

BALTIMORE, Md.—Sen. Millard E. Tydings, D., denounced by President Roosevelt as a "betrayer" of the New Deal, today placed his campaign for renomination on a frankly, anti-New Deal plane.

Promising to fight what he charged was an "invasion" of states' rights by the president, he virtually defied him to "invade Maryland in person," and said that that state "will not permit her star in the flag to be 'purged' from the constellation of the States."

In his first reply to Mr. Roosevelt's press conference announcement of his opposition to Tydings' renomination, the senior senator from Maryland accused the president of "carpet-bagging;" described his opponent, Rep. David J. Lewis, as a "100 per cent rubber stamp candidate;" charged the small, Maryland officeholders are being "intimidated and terrorized."

Lewis Blasts In Answer.

Three hours after he had spoken over a state-wide radio network last night, Lewis answered. To Tydings' comparison or Mr. Roosevelt's tactics with those of the reconstruction era, Lewis retorted that his opponent had "treated the president like a carpet-bagger;" that he "has allowed himself to become exercised to the point or frenzy;" that he had "turned" against the New Deal.

In his address, which he described as an answer to recent events, Tydings said that Mr. Roosevelt "has invaded Maryland throughout the press," adding:

"Now it is reported that he will invade Maryland in person to carry on this war against me.

"I believe the day will come when President Roosevelt will realize that neither he, nor any other executive, federal or state, should attempt to destroy the independence and usefulness of the other branches of the government."

It has been reported that the president will speak in Baltimore Labor day in behalf of Lewis, but this has not been confirmed by the president.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Finds Horse Race 'Game' Full of Bribery, Fancy Manners, Racketeering

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—The high-minded antics of the horse-track people in their moments of big morality always suggest the indignation of the old-time burlesque queen when the comic in the two-passenger pants called her "chicken."

Don Meade, a jockey who once rode a winner in the Kentucky Derby, has been reinstated for duty on the Florida tracks after a long suspension, on the basis of information which was obtained by wiretapping as he communicated with his bookmaker. Even assuming that he bet against his own horse and then lost his race to win his wager, Mr. Meade would establish no marked moral inferiority to many of those who have the honor of the game in their keeping.

Mr. Meade was riding by authority of a law which was shush-funded through a cheap Florida legislature after racing had existed for years by local bribery. He knew, if he had been at all observant, that no tests of character or honor are assumed by those who operate race tracks.

* * *

Mr. Meade would have been justified in hoping that a little job of larceny would be interpreted as the sincerest flattery of many of the influential elders of the game.

Thus it must have shocked the boy to hear that he was suspended that time, the more so when it came out that his phone had been tapped, an offense itself no less criminal than that of pulling a horse up into one's lap.

Racing is such a bizarre mixture of fancy manners, high pretense, bribery and racketeering that, far from affecting a righteous frown at the discovery of a little funny business, the governors should whoop with proud surprise whenever they discover evidence tending to show that a race has been run on the level. Theirs is a sport which lives by the permission of cash-and-carry political bosses and state legislators and buys its life from day to day by graft.

The motive is percentage, and the same effect would be observed if the same legislatures should issue a similar number of exclusive licenses to the same operators to conduct gigantic roulette wheels, seven or eight whirls a day. It is not a noble institution, and its occasional blurts of indignation and wrath against the more clumsy offenders only emphasize the paltriness of their nickel and dime swindles by comparison with the major coups of some of the distinguished leaders, including financiers.

* * *

It has always been my sordid contention that the public, even including the bettors, is no worse off for a fake, and no better off for an honest race, because fakery should be reckoned as one of the possibilities. Ed Bradley once told me that there were 18 or 57, or some such number, factors that could intervene to beat the best horse in any field. It seems stingy and insincere not to add fakery to such an abundant list of possibilities.

And if a horse be pulled by the jockey and another, and quite unworthy, horse wins the race, that merely means that certain other persons profit and rejoice instead of those no more worthy individuals who bet the favorite. This, however, is just a mischievous and, perhaps, slightly immoral thought of one individual which has nothing to do with the fact that the least of the moral offenses of racing occur on the track and in the barns. Those who tapped Mr. Meade's telephone, for example, or bribed public officials, probably did not even give a thought to the possibility that there could be something criminal in that.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Roy Rogers is a fellow who likes his space. He's not a guy for cities.

"I doan like cities," he drawled in a voice which is just right for his cowboys duds, which are pretty magnificent in the quiet cowboy manner of Hollywood.

"New York," he said, like one who knows, "is too blamed crowded. And the folks there—they turn around and look at you when you walk down the street in your cowboy outfit."

Roy just got back from the big city. It was his first look-see, and New York's first look-see at Roy, who did a stretch at the Rainbow Room and some personal appearances at a movie house or two.

Here's the boy who "got in"—and clicked—during Gene Autry's fight with Republic. Roy made the picture Autry stalled on, and first thing anybody knew they had a new star who could ride and sing same as Gene.

* * *

He's 25, blondish, a little shy. Not as shy as he can act, though. In New York during his stage trick a gang of women marched on the stage and corralled him right before the rest of the audience That was a time when shyness was definitely called for.

"What you gals want?" said Roy, actin' shy as could be.

"Your autograph," the gals said.

Roy isn't over that yet. He isn't over his surprise, either, at the way he got to be a cowboy star. He left ranch life near Cody, Wyo., when he was 10. Moved to a farm near Portsmouth, O. Moved again, some years later, to a ranch near Roswell, N. M., where he rode herd and learned how to be nonchalant in the saddle.

Next stop was Hollywood, "jest on a visit to my sister," he said. "Things were slim for me the first two years. I had a lot of jobs like driving a dump truck. One day I got myself a git-tar and learned how to play it. I sang at a party and then I started lookin' for some work on radio. Didn't get much, at first. But after a while I got on a program, and did some singin' in pictures. Worked in some Autry pictures, too. Then when Gene left I was one of them that took a test to take his place. Gene's back now, but here I am too. That's what you call lucky."

Roy's outfit was a fancy cowboy shirt, green chiffon scarf, blue dungarees tucked into well-worn boots with a fancy design of big red hearts across the instep. He's letting his hair grow to play in "Billy the Kid Returns."

"New York," he said, "is funny. The folks there turn around and look at you when you walk down the street in your cowboy outfit."

* * *

At Smiley Burnette's new Early American house in the valley near Republic—Roy went along—I discovered how Smiley keeps his weight. Smiley's not a star, he's just the big good-natured guy in the loud-checked shirt who adds to the merriment of Gene Autry's films. Smiley was having a luncheon party.

"This," he said, "is a Tom Sawyer fence paintin' party."

He indicated the new fence, adorned roughly with assorted libels. "Lynn Roberts Eats Onions . . . Rochelle Rudson Is Cross-Eyed . . . Recall Hugh Herbert, the Mayor of Studio City, the Dirty Crook . . . Roy Rogers Is a Bum . . . June Johnston Ain't Pretty . . . "

The idea was to have each guest paint out the insult. It worked.

Dinner Dress

A tunic dress for dinner dates is very flattering, especially for dining in those smart outdoor places under the moon or electric lights, as happens. A horizontal patterned lace in stallop effect is one of the popular lace patterns chosen for daytime as well as evening fashions.

This gown, which is an excellent choice for cruise and summer dinner dates, is made in two pieces with the tunic-length jacket top. The pastel color of the lace is set off by the bright contrast of the velvet collars and bow cuffs. It was designed by Patricia Persons of Los Angeles.

Erie, Pa. Marriage Interests Friends of Former Mansfielder

A Better Life.

Young Man Finds Advice Helps Him

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

Are you taking advantage of benefits offered you? Or do you let them go like water over the dam while you lament that you never get a break? Take this boy's letter, for instance:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"Two years ago, I wrote you all about my troubles. I wanted to be married, but marriage on $18 a week seemed too hard on the girl. I had a part-time job, typing, and wasn't very good at that. No knowledge of shorthand and rather rusty on English.

"You suggested a course in adults education, including shorthand, commercial English and some bookkeeping, if I could manage all three. I got in touch with our local superintendent of schools, and enrolled.

"Well, Miss Fairfax, I'm still a long way from being a John Rockefeller, jr., or one of the Astor boys, but I succeeded in getting a job which pays $27.50 a week. And on this I decided that marriage was a safe risk. And my girl agreed.

"We have three rooms in the suburbs, and as there is no electricity in the house, we have to depend on oil lamps, which didn't cost much. And the better air and well-kept gardens around us make up for keeping the lamps filled and trimmed.

"Not very long ago, kerosene was regarded as a startingly modern improvement, replacing the handmade candles and the old whale-oil lamps. Indeed we love the soft light, and find it easier on our eyes.

"And here's thanks for your hint. I would never have thought of taking a course in adult education, if it hadn't been for your suggestion.

"Some of us, myself among the number, are just dumb, they, including myself, make me think of taxi drivers, tearing along frantically and never stopping to look at the fares waving and entreating them to stop. Well, thanks again. From a

"Young Husband."

It has been the good fortune of this column to receive letters from young people, from time to time, saying that our suggestions worked. Perhaps you've grown tired of hearing me beg you to take advantage of adult education, when you'd like to make a little more money.

Meantime, Mrs. Roosevelt has some interesting things to say on the subject. In a recent article she said: "In the face of economies which would cut the teachers' salaries and reduce the teachers' staff, the total enrollment in the adult education class reached 1,568,211, which is a few hundred over the number enrolled last year. To me this program has always been extraordinarily important, because adult illiteracy tends to mean a lower standard of living and less parental control in the home.

It's especially gratifying to me, in visiting classes in adult education, to see such a large enrollment among people not of their first youth. Dropping into such a class lately, I was especially impressed by parents who were laboriously learning to read and write English. While these people wrote and spoke the language of their home countries fluently, they found that to maintain a respected position in their own household, they must be able to speak, read and write the language of the new country. It was encouraging to see how thankful they were for this great advantage which their new home afforded them.

My Neighbor Says:

There are several annuals which if planted now in boxes of earth and transplanted into pots when well started will make good window garden plants for early winter. Among the plants which give good results in a sunny window are these: Annual chrysanthemums, Nemesia strumosa, scabiosa or morning bride, snapdragon, arctotis, dimorphotheca, schizanthus or butterfly flower, and the trailing thunbergia alata. Any good garden soil will do for these plants, which should be shifted from very small pots to larger pots before they start to bloom. The main difficulty in growing such plants comes from attacks of insect pests, especially lice. The lice can be kept away to an extent, however, by keeping the soil in the pots covered with chopped tobacco stems.

Plastic Surgery Safe Art

(By MME. QUI VIVE)

Laurel wreaths to the medical profession. Becoming more proficient in curing the ills of human beings the dignified gentlemen got wise to some of their own shortcomings. In yore times doctors and surgeons couldn't be bothered with women who were sick of soul because of blemishes that marred their appearance. These troubles were not life and death matters. The result was that charlatans flourished, found ready victims raked in money.

Hospitals discriminated against surgeons who made facial repairs, took tucks in wrinkled faces, adjusted ears so they would lose their outstanding qualities. It wasn't considered ethical or dignified to use the scalpel for the sake of good looks.

Times are different. Plastic surgery has become respectable. The World war developed this new science. Thousands of soldiers were given skillful attention, so that they could face the world with courage; marvelous repair work was accomplished.

Nowadays the medical man understands that mind and body are one machine; that the woman who is wretchedly unhappy because of beauty ills is in condition to become physically ill. Her spirit is crushed. If she can be made to look well, she'll feel well.

* * *

Any doctor will tell you that many patients come to him suffering from imaginary ills. He makes a thorough examination; if he finds there is nothing wrong he doesn't stop there. He has to work on the mind; assure the patient that everything is as it should be. Mental health is the remedy.

The victim of beauty griefs sees her troubles. They are reflected in the mirror. They have a devastating effect upon her. They are devitalizing. Nutrition, circulation, the nervous system all suffer. If relief is to be had, she is entitled to seek it.

There are still flourishing plastic surgeons whose work is doubtful. But they are few. If you feel the need of treatment for disfiguring facial blemishes, ask your family doctor to recommend a dermatologist. He will give you the name of one who has high standing in the medical profession.

Some scars can be erased. Certain types of birthmarks can be effaced, though not all of them. ugly moles and warts can be removed with safety.

Remodeling the nose is a minor operation. The work is done on the inner surfaces, no scars remain. A wrinkled throat can be tightened. Heavy facial lines are obliterated by drawing tissues and muscles upward, making an incision in the hair line at the temples, cutting out a tiny section of the skin. These operations are done every day, to men as well as women.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

WE DID not have to wait long to learn my mother-in-law's reaction to the mode of address which Queen Olga had stipulated for Katherine, Lillian and me. Olina, Lillian, Harry, Dicky and I had only just finished our meal when Mother Graham appeared at the door of the dining room.

"Margaret," she said with elaborate courtesy, "when you have quite finished your meal, I should like to speak to you in the library."

If I had been a small boy and the speech had been, 'I want you in the woodshed," I could not have felt more anticipatory of a flogging. But there was only one answer to be made.

"I am quite finished, Mother," I said. "I can come with you now, if you wish."

"Do, please," she answered, and then with what was apparently a second thought, she turned to Lillian.

"I should like to have your presence at this interview also, if it be possible," she said stiffly.

"Sure thing," Lillian responded breezily. "I'll be right with you."

"Thank you," Mother Graham said stiffly, then she turned her eyes to Olina.

Talks "American."

"I trust you will excuse me, Princess," she said stiffly, and at the words, Olina, who had risen with us at her entrance, came over to her with a wide smile on her face.

"Please, I don't want to be disrespectful, but I'm going to talk American to you," she said. "Where do you get this 'princess' stuff? I'm not a princess any more, and even if I were, I want to call you 'Granzie' the way Mary does, and I want you to call me Olina. I don't want you ever to call me anything else."

My mother-in-law smiled at her, but there was stubbornness in her answer.

"You are a dear child," she said, "but I have a certain sense of the fitness of things, and I must do as I think best about this. Later, perhaps—"

She left the promise in the air, and stalked majestically from the room, Lillian and I trailing in her wake, exchanging rueful glances. When we were near the library, I hurried ahead to open the door for her

"Thank you," she said with an air of addressing a stranger, and then she said impressively:

"Please be seated."

I dutifully drew up a chair, and invested her in it. Then Lillian and I drew up chairs in front of her.

"A situation has arisen," she said, "which calls for your immediate attention, Margaret, and I have asked Mrs. Underwood to join us, because she may have some light to throw on the situation."

She paused impressively, and I saw that Lillian's perfunctory smile was as inane as my own.

"Is it with your knowledge and consent, Margaret," she asked, "that the nurse in your family calls the queen of Transvania by her given name?"

She rolled out the syllables of the royal title unctuously, and if I had not been angered by her slighting reference to Katherine, I should have had hard work to control my laughter muscles.

"Aren't you forgetting, Mother," I said, "that Katherine is my kinswoman, and that her status here is the same as my sister's would be, if I had one?"

THEATER

THIS AND THAT: One out of every five letters received by Bette Davis urges her to play the role of Scarlett O'Hara . . . Joan Bennett who was so badly miscast in "The Texans," is considering Broadway offers to do a Kaufman-Ferber play this fall . . . Take a special look at Barbara Stanwyck's hair in her forthcoming film, "The Mad Miss Manton." It is an amber blond, said to be the natural color. Miss Stanwyck will give up her red hair for the time being . . . Miss Bennett, incidentally, has two more pictures about ready for release: "Artists and Models Abroad," with Jack Benny, and she is working at present with Frederic March in "Trade Winds."

Reproduces New York.

Those who are familiar with New York's commission districts—those streets and areas to which the farmers of Long Island, New Jersey and up state districts bring their vegetables and produce each morning—are going to be surprised when they see this district faithfully reproduced in "Racket Busters," the Madison theater attraction. An exact replica of the stalls and little stores, and trucks, where tomatoes, lettuce, squash and all kinds of summer vegetables are piled up, was made for a background for the picture's action. And the vegetables fly when the truck racketeers start their war in the independent truck men. George Brent tries to fight the mobsters single handed, but is drawn into the net when his wife, Gloria Dickson, needs money for her coming child. Humphrey Bogart heads the racketeers and Allen Jenkins is allied with Brent. Walter Abel is seen as the district attorney or "racket buster."

* * *

Years to Write Score.

Unparalleled in the history of musical pictures is the musical score for "Alexander's Ragtime Band," for it is made up of more than 25 songs that represent 27 years of popular song writing by Irving Berlin. Starting with the song title, which was written in 1911, the top hits of Berlin's work are either hummed, played or sung. They include such favorites as "When That Midnight Choo-Choo Leaves For Alabam," What'll I Do?" "All Alone," "Remember," "Blue Skies," "Easter Parade," and many others. Alice Faye's voice is particularly well adapted to Berlin's songs. Tyrone Power as the band leader who moved from the Barbary Coast to Carnegie Hall in New York, and Don Ameche as the singer who loved his best friend's girl, give the picture a big star cast. It's at the Ohio.

* * *

Bashful Hero.

Stuart Erwin is a bashful, fumbling hero in "Passport Husband" in which he marries a gorgeous night club singer only to learn that he is a "husband in name only" and that she has married him as a convenience when the police get too hot on her trail. But even a fumbling bus-boy has his moments and when Stu gets started a whole gang of mobsters find themselves in police nets, or rather, firemen's nets held by the police. Joan Woodbury and Pauline Moore are two pretties in the film while Harold Huber and Douglas Fowley are the meanies. On the same bill—the mid-week program at the Majestic—is Warner Baxter in a re-issue of "Robin Hood of El Dorado." Ann Loring, Bruce Cabot and Margo are in the cast.

* * *

Beautiful Photography.

What "The Goldwyn Follies" may have lacked in story is more than made up in photographic beauty. One of the most beautiful fantasys ever filmed is the dance of the Water Maiden in which the classically beautiful Zorina makes her screen debut. The set for the dance is as extravagently lovely as an Arabian Nights picture. The story concerns a movie producer who hires a country girl to criticize his film stories because she represents the "common people's" tastes. The cast is dusted with star names, from the films, the radio and even the opera. A four-way romance between Myrna Loy, Franchot Tone, Rosalind Russell and Walter Pidgeon in "Man-Proof" is the second film at the Ritz.

LYING IN AMBUSH

DID YOU EVER pass the opponent's suit bid because you were loaded to give him trouble and only hoped you could get a crack at him upon a higher level? As he fell for the bait, did you then try to push him still higher by sticking in a supporting bid for one of your partner's suits? If he succumbed to this, soared to new levels and you then came out of your ambush and doubled him, didn't you feel smart and happy? What would become of your joy if your partner then took out the profitable double with a rebid of his own suit, which got doubled and set?

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

East opened the bidding on this deal with 1-Diamond, South overcalled with 2-Clubs, West passed, North put in a bid of 2-Hearts, East 2-Spades, South 3-Clubs, West 3-Spades, North 4-Hearts, East 4-Spades and South 5-Clubs. West gleefully doubled this and North passed. When it came to East he made the mistake of taking out into 5-Spades, which North doubled.

The heart 10 lead immediately drove out East's A, and when he returned a trump, North cashed a heart and offered a club, which South was able to win. The result was East went down one trick.

The score would have been quite different if East had paid attention to his partner's double, realizing that having passed at one stage and later doubled, he probably was simply egging South on. South would have been set three tricks.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, August 23.

A FAIRLY active and progressive day is forecast from the predominant planetary configurations. While there may be much stirring on the surface, the important factor may be an undercurrent of influence or secret plans that may come to the open with gratifying results. This may be in connection with cherished plans, probably affecting the employment or standing with superiors, or it may have to do with writings, contracts or promotional enterprises.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is are justified in expecting a rather lively and successful year, with things happening to promote new enterprises, advance employment or make contracts, or agreements of a very gratifying nature.

A child born on this day may be clever, versatile and enterprising, with certain shrewd or subtle qualities that may advance its interests and win it an established place with its superiors. It may write in practical lines.

In making coffee the water must be boiling at the top boiling point before it is poured on the coffee. Water at the highest possible temperature is necessary for the most efficient extraction of flavor, aroma and color.

New autumn coiffures.

* * *

By VERA WINSTON

THE COIFFURE is a definite part of the sartorial scheme this autumn, since it has influenced millinery to a remarkable degree, as witness the new hats and the up-swept coiffure. In Paris, the hair style for evening is definitely brushed-up, as these sketches, made in Paris, show. Old and young alike have adopted it. Some of the new coiffures are amusing and flattering. At top, a white paillette bird is placed right at the center of the head toward the front. Next we show two real roses placed in either side of the coils of a pompadour. A young girl can get away with the amusing little bright pink hankie, bejewelled and tied under the chin, shown below.

Anything Goes Into Salads

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

A salad a day is a good rule if you want the family to be healthy. Meat, poultry, fish and vegetables can all be used to make delicious salads.

Perhaps the most popular of all substantial salads is good old chicken salad. But one does get tired of it, and often eats it under protest. But here is a new version of an old favorite, and right good it is, too! We made enough for two meals, but there wasn't any left after it was introduced. This salad is made with chicken, cucumber and walnuts. It isn't expensive because you can take the meat from an old fowl which has been steamed or simmered until the meat comes away from the bones. Cut the meat into cubes and allow one-third the quantity of walnuts. Put the walnuts in a slow oven with a lump of butter and a bit of salt until the meats are crisp and break easily. Then break into bits and mix with the chicken and some chopped cucumber. Moisten with mayonaise (a gill to each pint of chicken mixture) and heap on crisp lettuce. Garnish with hard-boiled eggs and capers.

Potato Salad.

Potato salad is another salad that is a constant favorite no matter how it is prepared. And there are divers ways of preparing it. Here is our contribution: It requires two cups of cold boiled potatoes cut in one-half inch cubes, two tablespoons chopped pimento, one-half tablespoon finely-chopped onion or chives, three hard-boiled chopped eggs, five tablespoons mayonnaise, tablespoon vinegar, one-half teaspoon salt and dash of white pepper. Rub bowl in which salad is to be mixed with cut side of clove of garlic, if desired. Add potatoes, pimentos, onion and eggs. Combine one tablespoon mayonnaise with vinegar, salt and pepper, and add to potato mixture. Toss together lightly and chill one hour or longer. Add remaining mayonnaise and blend. Arrange in crisp lettuce cups and sprinkle with chopped chives. The potatoes must be freshly boiled and allowed to cool. Do not make a potato salad with left-over potatoes.

The best remedy for scratched furniture is a mixture of beeswax and turpentine, the former melted in the turpentine until it is as thick as syrup. Pour a little onto a piece of woolen cloth and rub it well into the scratched part. Then polish quickly with dry flannel and the marks will almost disappear.

SNEAD, COOPER TANGLE IN CANADIAN PLAYOFF

TORONTO, Ont.—(U.P.)—Sammy Snead, leading American money winner, and defending champion Harry Cooper meet today in an 18-hole playoff for the Canadian open golf title. They were tied at 277, 11 strokes under par, when the 72 holes of play ended Saturday. By agreement the playoff was set for 18 holes.

Cooper, who also won in 1932, was favored. At stake was $400 in prize money—the difference between the winner's share of $1,000 and the $600 to the runner-up.

Auxter Defeats Medalist

Eliminate Drummond, 1 Up, To Reach Semi-Finals In Westbrook Tournament.

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

A PERENNIAL contender but never a champion, Paul Auxter pulled off one of the finest golfing jobs in the current Westbrook Country club championship tournament Sunday when he eliminated the medalist, Burleigh Drummond.

The victory can hardly be labeled as an upset as Auxter has been a consistent contender for titular honors at Westbrook, but Drummond was a popular pre-match favorite.

However, Drummond was unable to cope with Auxter's short game, which is probably the deadliest in Mansfield golfing circles.

Drummond, who made his first appearance in the Westbrook tournament this year, was eliminated on the last hole of the quarter-final match, and wrecked his own chance to extend the battle by missing a 5-foot putt.

Auxter, who was a finalist in 1936 and a semi-finalist last year, and Drummond staged a nip-and-tuck stroke battle in which the lead changed hands frequently.

At the turn of the 18-hole soiree, Auxter and Drummond were even. They exchanged the lead a couple of times on the outside nine, and teed off on short No. 18 even.

Auxter holed out in par figures with a 12-foot putt, and Drummond, with a chance to halve the hole, missed connections with the can.

To gain a position in the Westbrook semi-finals for the third straight year, Auxter fashioned an 80, which bettered Drummond's medal by one stroke.

Auxter's semi-final opponent will be E. A. Eisele, who advanced on a default from Chet Eisenberger. The other semi-final match will pit Bob Moorhead against Howard Hosler.

Moorhead triumphed over Bart Haley, 2 up, and Hosler eliminated Bob Stevens, 3 and 2, in the quarter-finals. Moorhead and Haley pounded out identical 79's in their match.

Four Down at 15th. Burns Rallies to Win.

R. E. Burns staged one of the most phenomenal rallies witnessed on any Mansfield golf course this year when he defeated H. S. Jones, 1 up on the 19th hole, in a quarter-final match in the Westbrook consolation flight.

Going into the 15th hole, Burns was four down, but he staged a comeback that enabled him to square the match on the 18th and win on the extra hole.

Burns' opponent in the semi-finals will be Henry Talmadge, who eliminated John Warden, 1 up, also on the 19th, an extra hole.

If Burns can win his semi-final match, the consolation finals will be a Burns vs. Burns affair.

Johnny Burns reached the finals in this flight Sunday when he bested Dr. P. A. Stoodt, 3 and 2. Burns won his quarter-final match from Bob Daugherty on a default, and Dr. Stoodt trimmed W. O. Critchfield, 3 and 2, in the lower bracket semi-finals.

The third flight finals will involve Bob McCormick and Paul Wilmore. McCormick reached the finals by winning over T. R. Sammons, 1 up on the 19th, and Wilmore defeated Dick Fishback, 1 up, over the regulation distance.

Louie Lamoreux was crowned the fourth flight champion last week when he defeated J. L. Connors, 8 and 7, in the finals.

New Champ to Be Crowned at Possum Run.

A NEW club champion will be crowned in the Possum Run tournament this year, and it may be the 1937 king's brother, Al Kushin.

Al won a position in the finals over the week-end when he turned back his brother and defending champion, Carl, 3 and 2, and his opponent in the titular match will be Pete Linster, a champion many times.

The younger Kushin slugger fashioned a brilliant 68 to end his brother's reign at the "Irish" McGee layout, and Linster edged Pete Zeides, 1 up, in the other semi-final match.

Second flight results at Possum Run: Frantz defeated Brandt, 2-1; Dillon defeated C. Schlegel, 2-1; Leuthner defeated Snyder, 1 up; Anthony defeated King, 2-1; Fay defeated Byrnes, 2 up; Mayer defeated Balliet, 2-1; H. Schlegel defeated A. Davis, 3-2; Foltz defeated Spurgeon, 1 up.

Third flight: Mollenkamp defeated Morgan, 2-1; Ackley defeated Long, 1 up; Bowles defeated

INDIANS FIND WHITE SOX TOUGH, TOO

CLEVELAND —(U.P.)— The collapse of the Cleveland Indians parallels the pitching slump of tempermental Johnny Allen and today it was evident the Tribe was going to be merely "another club" until the star right-hander again becomes a winner.

Allen lost his fifth game in his last six starts here yesterday when he was beaten 4 to 3 by the Chicago White Sox in the opening game of a double-header. Cleveland put on a ninth inning rally to snare the second game 3 to 2. The split dropped them 11 games back of the pace-setting New York Yankees.

Allen, who claims to have a sore arm, pitched great ball for seven innings and at the end of that stretch held a 3 to 0 lead. Then came the blow-off.

Joe Kuhel walked to start the round, but then Allen retired Marvin Owen and Gerald Walker on easy pop-ups. A single by Rip Radcliff and a walk to Luke Appling filled the bases. Mike Kreevich singled home two runs and a hit by Boze Berger tied the count. That was all for Allen and Johnny Humphries took up the pitching burden.

With Kreevich on third and Berger at first, the latter broke for second and as Humphries saw him go he balked on his delivery to George Rensa at the plate. That permitted the winning run to come in.

In the second contest Jack Knott had the best of Willis Hudlin in a tight pitching duel for eight innings.

With the count 2 to 1 in favor of the White Sox, Hudlin gave way to a pinch hitter in the eighth and Denny Galehouse took up the mound duties.

He blanked the White Sox in the top of the ninth and received credit for the victory when his mates pushed across two runs in their half of the round when they put together three singles, a sacrifice and a base on balls.

In the final game of the series today Bob Feller and John Whitehead were to be the opposing pitchers.

Legion Loses Last Game to Newark, 10 to 5

But Finishes In 2nd Place; Dudley Routed In Fourth.

Mansfield's American Legion club was eliminated from the championship race in the Central Ohio league Sunday when it bowed to Newark, 10 to 5, in Newark in the final game of the second half.

Despite the defeat, Manager Dewey Durant's Legionnaires finished in second place behind Jackson, which will meet Newark, first half champion, in a playoff to determine the league title.

Mansfield tallied two runs in the first inning, but Newark knotted the score in its half, and never trailed after adding another run in the second.

The big blow-off came in the fourth when the hosts sent five runs across the platter and Donald Dudley, who started on the mound for Mansfield, to the showers.

Aid Geiger took up the pitching burden at this point, and pitched creditable ball, although found for three runs in the seventh. The Legions tallied their final two runs in the ninth.

The Mansfield team was held to six hits, Beal collecting a pair to lead the way. Kurtzlotz and Preiest obtained three apiece to pace Newark's 13-hit attack.

One-Hit Game Features Wins

Knackstedt Gives Up Single As Merchants Triumph.

A one-hit performance by Bill Knackstedt featured the Mansfield Merchants' double victory over the Estes Coals at Liberty park, Sunday.

Dickson slapped out a single in the seventh to rob Knackstedt of a no-hit achievement in the first game of the doubles. Pete Metz yielded only four hits in the night-cap as the Merchants triumphed, 17 to 5.

The hitting of Keiser of the Merchants featured both games. He collected a triple and two singles in the opening tilt and pounded out a triple and double in the second tilt.

Avery's Double Sends Winning Run Across Plate.

After trailing for seven innings, the Mansfield Colored Elks knotted the count in the seventh and scored another run in the eighth to defeat the Lexington Whitney Oils, 9 to 8, at Tillman's park, Sunday.

Avery's two-bagger, which followed W. Brown's second double of the game, drove in the game-winning run.

A. Jones, a tall right hander, was on the mound for the Elks, and after allowing five runs on six hits and an error in the first two innings, he settled down and gave the visitors only three more tallies.

W. Brown led the attack for the Mansfield team with four hits in five trips to the plate.

Grandon-Enos Annex Mixed Doubles Title

Tyger Cage Star Defeats Ellison, 6-4, 2-6, 11-9; Kuhn-Foltz, Defending Champions, Lose.

By The News-Journal Tennis Editor.

CHAMPIONS in two divisions of The News-Journal's annual tennis tournament were crowned at the Woodland tennis court Sunday.

Gene Rudolph, 17-year-old Mansfield high school basketball star, won the junior singles championship, and Naomi Grandon and Bob Enos annexed the mixed doubles crowns.

Rudolph defeated Bob Ellison, who also shows all the earmarks of becoming one of the city's outstanding racquet wielders, 6-4, 2-6, 11-9, and the Grandon-Enos duo won over the defending champions, Janie Kuhn and Bob Foltz, in straight sets, 7-5, 6-4, in what can be regarded as a mild upset.

Rallies in Third Set.

Showing the competitive spirit of a real champion, Rudolph staged a brilliant rally in the third and deciding set to trim Ellison in the first junior tournament ever staged by The News-Journal.

At one time in the final set, Rudolph trailed his hard-hitting opponent 5 to 3, but he kept on battling and won out in a match that tested the stamina of both finalists.

Neither player took any unnecessary chances in the final set. They played deliberate tennis after slugging it out in the first two sets.

Rudolph was particularly effective on the volley, while Ellison's play featured a near perfect service and sizzling drives. Both lobbed well.

Grandon and Enos displayed nice team work to spill the 1937 champions in the mixed doubles finals.

The Kuhn-Foltz duo held a 5 to 4 lead at one time in the first set, but never was ahead in the final set. Grandon and Enos went on to win in the last set after the unsuccessful defenders knotted the count 4-all.

Finals in the other events will be staged over the week-end, with the men's singles championship featuring next Sunday's program.

The finalists in the women's singles have already been determined. They are Marty Campbell and Janie Kuhn, who won the last women's elimination staged by The News-Journal two years ago. Janie reached the finals Saturday by winning over Alice Bright, 6-0, 6-0.

The men's doubles finals will send the defending champions, Enos and Bob Spear, against the winner of the Lowell Bourns-Ellsworth Slabaugh and Foltz-Thornton Moore match. Bourns and Slabaugh reached the semi-finals over the week-end by eliminating Arnold and Maul, 6-1, 6-1.

This match marked Bourns' first appearance in the tournament since suffering the ankle injury which forced his default in the

Aussie Stars Rated Chance In U. S. Play

Bromwich, Quist Loom As Formidable Threats.

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass.—(U.P.)—The American men's, women's and mixed doubles tennis championships open today at the Longwood Cricket club and Australian stars were given a fighting chance to take some of the titles.

Last year, Germany's Baron Gottfried Von Cram and Henner Henkel took the men's doubles. Henkel and his current Davis cup partner, George Von Metaxa, were uncertain competitors—they had been ordered home for a "rest"—but Jack Bromwich and Adrian Quist, of Australia, were looked upon as a very formidable threat.

The German pair, beaten 5-0 by Australia in the week-end interzone Davis cup matches, and the U. S. Lawn Tennis association appealed to the German Tennis federation to rescind cancellation of the Nazi's American tour. An answer was expected today.

Betting odds disregarded the Germans and made the U. S. Davis cup team of Gene Mako and Don Budge, victims of the Germans last year, a slight favorite to take the title.

Thirty-two teams were entered, including 18 of America's top 20 players, and Davis cup players from Japan, France, England, Australia and Yugoslavia.

Alice Marble of San Francisco, America's ranking woman player, and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, of Brookline, Mass., were favored to retain the women's title they won last year. Their strongest opposition was expected to come from Nancy Wynne and Thelma Coyne of Australia, top-seeded on the foreign list. Budge and Mrs. Fabyan were favored to retain the mixed doubles crown.

Preliminary practice rounds by some of the early arrivals gave promise of hard competition. Al Alcroft, the home pro, shot a 34-34—68, three under par.

Other low practice scores included: Gene Marchi, Dayton pro, 33-36—69; Bobby Servis, Dayton amateur, 74; Jack Thompson, Southern Hills, 72; Buck Sproul, Warren, 73.

Phil Perkins, Cleveland pro who once held the British amateur championship, is defending titlist from last year's tournament at Cleveland. Jock Collins of Mansfield is included among the entrants.

Control of Heat Cuts Fuel Bill, Reduces Work

The average home owner soon learns that taxes, repairs, and insurance mount to a sizable sum each year. These fixed expenses he seldom complains about but interviews with more than 11,000 home owners recently disclosed the fact that 90 per cent of these home owners believe that their fuel bills are too high.

In fact, 51 per cent of all of these home owners believe that some sort of thermostatic control should be attached to their heating plants and hundreds of them have already invested in such a control.

Most of these controls are automatic. All that is required is for the home owner to turn a button to a given temperature and, within a half-hour his heating plant will deliver that temperature to most of the rooms. Home owners who cannot afford the most expensive control systems are now installing a simple control which costs about $15.

Careful records of fuel expenditures prove that these controls quickly reduce the cost of fuel and trips to the basement regardless of the type of heating plant being used.

The Charles Hoffman company, 106 North Walnut street, co-operating with the Williamson Heater company, has installed a free heating check-up service that is now being offered to every family in this community. Factory engineers co-operating with their local representatives make a complete examination of any home and prescribe for it without obligation.

Eleven million out of 30,000,000 families in the U. S. are getting money from the federal government.

ELECTRICITY PROVES EFFICIENT, ECONOMICAL IN HEATING WATER

Nothing compares with the luxury of plenty of hot water when it is needed and wanted. Electricity—proven so efficient and economical a method of preserving food in the electric refrigerator and of cooking food with the modern range, roaster and small appliances—has also proven to be a most efficient and economical method of providing hot water in the home.

Modern electric water heaters are inexpensive, safe, and dependable. By providing a constant and adequate supply of hot water at the turn of the faucet for a hot tub; for dishwashing, not only to clean the dishes and silverware spotlessly but also to sterilize them and prevent the spread of colds and other sicknesses; for laundering and for house cleaning; the efficient electrical servants serve faithfully and are worth infinitely more than the moderate electricity cost.

Though designed primarily to give real hot water service easily, quickly and cheaply, the modern electric water heater is styled and also beautifully designed with a lustrous white finish. Its immaculate cleanliness adds dignity and makes it appropriate in the kitchen, laundry or recreation room.

Electricity, used as a source of energy, power or heat, is the cleanest fuel on earth. All ashes, soot, smoke, and odors are kept in a powerhouse miles away.

It can be 100 per cent automatically controlled and because of the unique method of heating the water—completely immersing the heating unit in the water inside the storage tank—the power consumption is entirely utilized.

Hot water is produced in quantity and stored at a high temperature for an indefinite length of time in an electric water heater. A tank is totally enclosed by thick insulation and covered by an outer casing. This increases the efficiency of the water heater and reduces the amount of electricity consumed, which also saves money. The electricity is automatically shut "off" and "on" by thermostats, keeping the water temperature at just the point desired—making it completely automatic and attention-free.

The Westinghouse electric water heaters have been home-proved by housewives all over the country. In many of these homes that otherwise appear to be identical, there has been found a vast difference in the amount of hot water used. The actual variation in the amount used per person per day in the families was from 5 to 20 gallons, depending upon the individual hot water habits of each family.

The electric water heater generally enjoys also, a very low rate for electricity and the home that is all-electric will be the first beneficiary of every rate reduction.

Increased Power Needs Reveals Nation's Growth

The trend in electric power consumption since 1929 is a striking yardstick of the nation's growth. The number of consumers rose from 23.6 million in January, 1929 to 27.3 million in April 1938, an average annual gain of 410,000. With a perceptible improvement in business, sizable housing programs and increasing rural electrification, the number of current consumers may pass the 30 million mark in the next year or two.

Although industrial uses of power have been quick to reflect business recessions, the domestic use has shown a slow but steady yearly increase. Average annual consumption per customer dipped from 3,183 kwh in 1929 to 2,630 during the pit of the depression, recovered to 3,751 in 1937.

The first half of this year saw a total production of 523 billion kwh versus 57.3 in the same 1937 period, but if business activity speeds up in the fourth quarter, the 1938 total may equal or surpass the 119 billion kwh produced last year.

Of some 22½ million wired homes in the U. S. (22 in 1937 and 21.2 in 1936), less than one per cent are air conditioned, only 48 per cent have vacuum cleaners, 38 per cent electric refrigerators, 50 per cent toasters and washers and only 7 per cent electric ranges. According to a report compiled late in 1937, U. S. home-owners had 30 million radios, about 53 per cent of the world's supply but there are still several million homes where it may be considered economically possible to sell sets, particularly if some of the 5½ million farms, now without current, are wired.

It is noteworthy that 68 per cent of all electrical appliances in 1937 were new type grills, coffee machines, cookers and devices perfected within the past 10 years. Gradually, the American home uses more and more electricity in ways undreamed of only 20 years ago.

Aircraft Sales Gain Altitude

The Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce has disclosed that total sales of planes, engines and spare parts in the first six months of 1938 had risen 47 per cent over comparable 1937 figures to $73,031,816.

Biggest share of the output went to military customers who took ships and motors worth $37,800,000. Commercial orders amounted to $17,000,000 with spare parts and accessories making up the remainder.

First-half percentage gains are expected to be pared over the balance of the year, due to rush of business booked in the final month of 1937. But company heads are pleased with: 1. the industry's further departure from the experimental, custom-built technique of its infancy, 2. the efficacy of improved production ar engineering methods, 3. a greater ability to handle large backlogs without sacrificing profits.

Evergreen Grows Where Grass Fails

Myrtle or Vinca Minor, a low growing, trailing and hardy evergreen plant has solved the problem of many property owners who faced the discouraging task of trying to grow grass under trees and in the shade of buildings, D. D. Quinn, landscape contractor says.

This plant also has been used on steep teraces where attempts to grow grass usually end in failure. Myrtle gives a permanent carpet and can be used also to relieve the bareness of the ground under and around evergreen and shrub plantings.

When Myrtle is used in this manner there is no need to cultivate these plants, thus reducing maintenance costs. When it is once planted, there is no pruning or mowing necessary, only an occasional weeding, Mr. Quinn points out. Even this is unnecessary after the second or third year from planting. Myrtle makes a picturesque and dense carpet on terraces, either in the sun or shade, and will prevent the soil from washing.

The plant has lance shaped, dark green and shiny leaves and is covered with light blue flowers in the spring.

"There are Myrtle plantings in this locality from 50 to 75 years old, thus proving the hardiness of this palnt," Mr. Quinn says. "It can be safely planted any time from early spring to late fall."

Mr. Quinn has experienced landscape men ready to give permanent plantings of Myrtle. He also is available for consultation on landscape work. He can be reached at phone 1766, Galion.

NOTICE TO TAX PAYERS

Notice is hereby given that the returns and assessments of real property of Richland County, Ohio for the tax year 1938 have been equalized and revised by the Richland County Board of Revision. The values are completed and are open for public inspection in the Real Estate Department of the County Auditor's office, Mansfield, Ohio.

Complaint against any values or assessments of real property, except values and assessments made by the Tax Commission of Ohio, will be heard by the Richland County Board of Revision at the Court House in Mansfield, Ohio at its next regular meeting.

Complaints must be made in writing by the owner of the property on blanks furnished by the County Auditor and filed at the Auditor's office on or before the time limited for payment of taxes for the first half year.

Many property owners are of the opinion that real estate is appraised at a certain per cent of its true value. This is erroneous as the Constitution and Law of Ohio provides that real estate be appraised at 100% of its true value. In making the present equalization of values the Board of Revision has attempted to carry out this law on a reasonable basis.

The willingness of a complainant to sell property at the assessed value does not necessarily constitute a reason for reduction nor does the purchase price of a property at a forced sale necessarily fix the tax value. The law requires consideration of all factors and the Board must consider rental, sales, reproduction costs, asking price, book values, insurance values, amount of mortgages, etc.

Since the last actual reappraisal in 1925 a blanket reduction of approximately 40% has been allowed on all real estate values in the County. Since that date a great many changes in the value of real estate have occurred. It is the object of this appraisal to recognize these changes and to assess each property on as fair basis as possible.

The Auditor, upon request, will furnish to any person the assessment of any tract, lot or parcel of real estate upon receipt of postage and last tax bill.

MARKET TURNS DOWNWARD IN LIGHT TRADING

Industrial Favorites Bear Brunt Of Profit-Taking; Building Shares Firm.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—The stock market turned reactionary today, after last week's recovery which had extended through six successive days.

Losses ran to about a point, with the industrial favorites on the recent rise bearing the brunt of scattered profit-taking. Volume continued of extremely small proportions, only 90,000 shares changing hands in the first hour of trading.

The trend was irregularly lower at the start, and after a first hour of narrow price swings in dull trading, the list moved downward on a wide front. The lack of any important volume, however, limited the reaction in most sections of the list.

Motors, steels, mail orders, coppers and rails were leaders on the decline. Building shares, benefited by optimistic predictions for second-half housing activities, maintained an independently firm tone.

Several representative issues dropped a point or more by noon. Included were U. S. Steel, Montgomery Ward, Chrysler, General Motors, American Smelting, Anaconda, Union Pacific, Philip Morris, Texas Corporation and Owens-Illinois glass.

Commodities were as quiet as stocks. Grains displayed a relatively steady tone around previous closing levels, but cotton eased 25 cents a bale. The bond market drifted downward in sluggish trading.

LINKS POLICE TO RACKET CASE

been raided three weeks later and 18 persons had been arrested.

Pompez then told of meeting a man named Dan Smith (a former policeman) in the spring or 1933.

Defense counsel interposed objections, demanding to know Smith's connection with the case. A long discussion ensued between the attorneys who huddled around the judge's bench.

It was the second lengthy conference at the bench. Before Pompez took the stand, counsel for the defense submitted memorandum in support of its motion, made last week, to strike out all testimony with reference to the late Magistrate Francis J. Erwin. Witnesses had told about Judge Erwin dismissing 26 men and women who were arrested in a policy raid in November 1933.

That discussion was not in the presence of the jury. In fact, the jury did not file in until 10:45 a. m. Judge Pecora made no announcement when they did.

Pompez was recalled and had testified only briefly when the argument about the admissability of testimony concerning Dan Smith cropped up.

District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, chief Defense Counsel Lloyd P. Stryker and other lawyers participated in the discussion which was held out of ear shot of the jury.

Judge Pecora overruled the defense objection and Pompez was allowed to testify regarding Smith.

Pompez said that Smith had come to his house frequently, that he had seen him as many as 100 times from March 1932 to March 1934. He said he often saw Smith in company with "Big Harry" Schoenhaus, who was treasurer of the "Dutch" Schultz policy syndicate.

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—With only fatigue to show for a harrowing experience, Oliver Gibson, 21, and James Barrick, 23, of Bay Village, returned to port here today. The youths were picked up by the oil tanker, Regent, after they had clung to their overturned sail boat for three hours in Lake Erie.

Ex-Organizer Of Communists Says Roosevelt Aims Like Those Of Soviets.

He intimated that the communists are taking an active part in the fight to prevent re-election of Rep. John J. O'Connor, D., N. Y., chairman of the house rules committee. The communists, he said, are working through the Workers Alliance, an organization of unemployed and assertedly a part of the communist "front."

"Would you say," asked Rep. Noah Mason, R., Ill., "that the $50,000 fund being raised by the Workers Alliance to defeat Rep. O'Connor is part of that (communist) program?"

"It looks to me as if it was," Matthews replied.

He asserted that the Communist party "aims ultimately at revolution—the complete overthrow of the system known as capitalism and the liquidation of the bourgeoise class, so-called.

"The present stage in communist strategy may be called the 'united front.' This is the period during which the party extends its influence in the many devious ways which I have tried to elucidate—a little radicalization here, a little there, boring, penetrating, infiltrating, ceaselessly maneuvering for some gain, however slight.

"The program is aimed more at winning an enormous number of sympathizers than at increasing the card-holding membership, although the latter is not to be underestimated.

"In particular, I call attention to the deliberate aim of penetrating the Democratic party by driving a wedge between its so-called 'liberal' wing and its so-called 'conservative' wing."

CITY, COUNTY GET $7,684 IN RELIEF FUNDS

State Allocation Comes In As Subdivisions Prepare To Borrow Money.

While Mansfield and Madison township officials sought today to borrow funds to meet their relief bills for the rest of the year, B. L. Lewis, state relief examiner, allocated $7,684 in state funds, or an average of $1.50 per person on relief in the city and county.

The state relief funds, derived from the county's August share of sales tax and beer and admission tax receipts, went to Mansfield and Shelby and 10 townships.

Mansfield, with considerably more than half the total relief load, received $4,080, while Madison township, second in the number of relief cases, got $1,536. Shelby received $369 and Springfield township, $258. Administration costs amounted to $1,052.

Other Allocations.

Other distributions included: Cass township, $48; Bloomingrove township, $28; Jefferson township, $15; Mifflin township, $96; Monroe township, $18; Plymouth township, $82; Troy township, $51, and Worthington township, $49.

The county relief report showed 4,421 received relief in July, when the total cost was $19,383. In Mansfield, 2,720 persons were on relief during the month, and Madison township reported 1,024 received help.

For the first time, allocation of the county's monthly relief funds from the state was made by the state relief examiner, who visits the county weekly to check relief expenses.

County commissioners, who have been distributing the funds, said Lewis probably would continue to distribute the money since he makes a regular examination of the relief figures and is more familiar with the needs of the sub-divisions.

EX-SLAVE, 100, DIES IN TIRO

Mrs. Eliza Huston Longed For Her 'Missy' Back In Her Beloved South.

SHELBY — Mrs. Eliza Huston, who was born a slave more than 100 years ago, died a free woman Sunday evening at her home in Tiro, but still longing for the ties which had bound her to her "Missy" at Macon, Ala.

The aged colored woman, who had celebrated her 100th birthday last March 7, was born on the George Harper plantation near Macon and spent her childhood and early youth there. Though the Civil war changed her status from slave to free woman, it did not change her affections and loyalties and she remained with or near the members of the Harper family most of her life. Her husband, George Huston, whose death occurred in March, 1925, in Missouri, just prior to her coming to Crawford county, was also a slave.

Although she heard only rarely from the remaining members of the Harper family, she always referred to them as "her folks in Macon."

In 1922 she and her husband went to Missouri. After his death the aged woman came to Tiro to make her home with her daughter, Mrs. Molly Craft, North Main street, at whose home she died. A son, William, followed her a few years later to Tiro.

Her survivors included, besides her son and daughter, five grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

tion, and Mrs. Elizabeth Grubaugh, Mansfield, was unanimously elected secretary to succeed Mrs. Helen Young, Mansfield, who was not a candidate for re-election.

Hess replaces Ralph M. Hardy, central committee chairman for the past two years, who withdrew to run for the executive committee chairmanship. The executive committee will meet this week to elect a chairman, and it appeared today that Hardy will be the new party leader to follow Glenn L. Bierly, who was left off the new executive committee. Bierly was defeated for precinct committeeman in the primary.

Charging that "the central committee has become a joke and has nothing to say about the organization of the party." Earl Rawson, veteran committeeman, proposed at Saturday's meeting that at least half of the executive committe be named from the central committee membership.

The proposal, however, was voted down by a sizeable margin With Rawson in protesting the "apparent planning of the party's affairs before the meeting" was J. Earl Ports, another veteran centrall committee member.

Reading of the committee's by-laws was voted down, because "it would take too long," and the constitution was adopted without reading although at least a dozen vigorous "no" votes were heard.

Among the victims of the "purge" were Fred Altaffer, treasurer of the executive committee for several years; Gardner, one of the party's leaders in Mansfield in recent campaigns; Bierly, M. L. Bigbee, Bellville, Kenneth Manner, Mansfield, and P. M. Eliot, Mansfield.

Executive committeemen elected after they were nominated by a committee including Arthur McMullen, Dale Jessop and Ralph Carroll, were:

Earl A. McFarland, T. R. Barnes, W H. Ferguson, Arliss Porter, C. F. Routzahn, Judge C. J. Anderson, J. E. Warrack, J. V. Will, Charles Sonners, C. S. Fernyak Stuart Cramer, Philip Wolfe, H. H Schettler, Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, Dale Jessop and John Hess, Mansfield; Ralph Hardy, Aaron Davis and Dalton Divelbiss, Madison township; Harry Hawley, C. E. Morris, Harvey Mullett, C. S. Stroup, and George Williams, Shelby; Newell Smith, Washington township; L. M. Alexander, Bellville; James Bumpus, Butler; Glenn Swanger, Shiloh, and Cyrus Shoup, Plymouth township.

Only 29 members were elected to the committee, but committeemen said two more members probably would be added when the group meets this week. The Republican women's organization may be asked to suggest nominees for the posts, Hess said. The committee is empowered to fill vacancies.

an executive chairman at Saturday's session, indications are that Atty. John C. O'Donnell, a Sawyer leader here, will be chosen. O'Donnell was Baer's assistant in the primary and Baer has announced that he would back him for the post.

JELLY-MAKING CONTEST SET

News-Journal Event, Open to Anyone In County, Set For Sept. 8-9.

The most important factor, of course, will be the texture, which counts for 40 per cent. Jelly that has a "livery," gummy texture, won't stand much chance. Next in importance is the fresh fruit flavor which will count for 35 per cent. The remaining five per cent is left for the container. And the container is important, for it must allow the jelly to come out easily.

There are rules to which the entries must conform. First of all the jelly must be made with the aid of Certo or Sure-jell, and each entry must be accompanied by a Certo bottle cap or a Sure-jell label.

The jelly must be made from one fruit juice only. Contestants may enter as many glasses as they like, each flavor constituting a seperate entry.

One of the most important rules is that there must be two glasses on each separate entry, and NONE OF THE JELLY WILL BE RETURNED after the contest. Here's where the American Legion auxiliary comes in—they will take the jelly for distribution in their welfare work.

And of course, only this year's jelly may be entered in the contest and each glass must be labeled with the name and address of the maker and the kind of jelly.

The first prize will be a Westinghouse electric roaster with a steak broiler, or its value may be used on a down payment on a Westinghouse range. Other prizes will be announced later.

All of the rules governing the contest will be published in Thursday's News-Journal.

BIDS RECEIVED ON COMPRESSOR

Five Firms Submit Proposals for Purchase of Device for Street Department.

The city board of control today was studying the bids of five firms submitted on a mobile air compressor to be purchased for use in the street department.

The bids, opened by the board which is comprised of Mayor Claude M. Hunter and Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist, included four proposals on new equipment and one bid on a machine formerly used as a demonstrator.

Mayor Hunter said contracts for the machine would not be let until next week.

Specifications call for the delivery of a mobile unit mounted on wheels with rubber tires and having a capacity capable of driving two air hammers.

Of the four firms which submitted bids on the new equipment the G. L. Rogers company, Mansfield, was low with a bid of $1,791, which was $119 lower than its closest competitor, the Hughes Supply company, Mansfield, which bid $1,910.

Other bidders were the Lorentz-Wheeler company, Columbus, whose bid was $1,970, and the Automotive Supply company, Mansfield, whose bid was $1,935.

The bid on the demonstrator was submitted by the Hercules Steel Products company, Galion, whose price was quoted at $1,651, or $140 lower than the lowest bid on the new machine.

City council at its regular meeting Aug. 2, authorized the purchase of the equipment when it approved an appropriation of $2,000.

HELD BLAMELESS IN TRAIN WRECK

Railroad Said Not Responsible For Accident In Which 47 Died.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The interstate commerce commission has absolved the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad of responsibiilty for the wreck of its crack passenger train, the Olympian on June 19. The wreck caused the deaths of 47 persons and 75 were hurt.

The train was wrecked when it went through a bridge weakened by the flood waters of Custer creek at Saugus, Mont., near Niles City. The commission's bureau of safety reached a brief conclusion: "This accident was caused by the undermining of the piers of a bridge, due to a cloudburst."

CHAPTER 22

"You," Mrs. Blarsom snorted, "why you can't even half way take care of yourself!" She turned to the doctor. "This girl is just a taxi dancer in a cheap dance hall, doctor. You can't depend on her. I tell you, you'd better send this sick girl to the charity hospital."

"And I tell you again, that I won't take any such risk," the doctor returned with asperity.

* * *

Mrs. Blarsom left the room in high dudgeon. Then the doctor moved over to Noel, and put a hand on her shoulder. "You're very young, but you look dependable." Then he went on, "This girl has double pneumonia I'm going to send a nurse, who will stay on duty all night, and remain in the house during the day for her period of rest and sleep. During that time you will have to carry on under her directions. Do you think you can do it?"

Noel straightened her shoulders, "Yes, doctor."

The doctor scrutinized her face again. "You are not the hysterical type, are you?"

Noel shook her head When he went away promising to send the nurse at once, and leaving two prescriptions for Noel to have filled immediately, she realized what her promise had meant. She couldn't leave Laurie to go to her work at the Garwoods. She couldn't even leave Luigi's until Laurie was well

The next few days were the hardest and busiest Noel had ever known. Laurie's nurse, a pleasant-faced red-haired girl, was capable and strong She was also kind, and Noel found it easy to work with her and follow her instructions when she had to take her periods of rest. Her name was Katherine Perry, but most people called her Kitty.

Noel liked her from the first, and she learned with a real regret that Kitty only could stay with Laurie temporarily, as she and the doctor would soon be called to New Orleans on a case for which they had been engaged several weeks ahead. Kitty's charge also was reasonable, as Noel knew, $6 a night and part of the day. Noel didn't know that doctors and nurses often made concessions to people in Laurie's circumstances. But $6 even under present conditions seemed a rather staggering amount.

* * *

Noel called the Garwood home to explain what had happened Hichens answered. When she told him she wouldn't be able to come out there for some time, he seemed agitated. He told her that it would be a severe shock to Mrs. Garwood, whose health wasn't good, and he insisted that she come on regardless of her roommate's illness But Noel was adamant. Then Hichens wanted to know when she could come, and said that he was sure Mrs. Garwood would hold the place for her indefinitely. He even went on to say that the poor dear woman had taken a fancy to Noel, and she simply wouldn't be satisfied with anybody else.

This was almost laughable in view of the fact that Mrs. Garwood hadn't even bothered to be courteous, but Noel closed the conversation by saying that she would come just as soon as she could.

It had been hard going back to Luigi's. But there hadn't been any help for it. Dancing at Luigi's at night, so she would have the day free was the only way she could work out the routine with the nurse. And now Noel had to do something even more difficult than going back to Luigi's. She had to have money for Laurie. She would have to tell Nick—at the thought her cheeks burned horribly. But she would have to do it. There wasn't anything else she could do. She made up her mind she would ask Nick that night.

* * *

While sitting at Laurie's bedside listening to her pitiful struggle to breathe, Noel heard a car stopping outside. It had a low luxuriant hum. A car like this didn't stop often in the neighborhood of Mrs. Blarsom's. In another minute the rooming house keeper told Noel she was wanted.

She found Hichens outside. "I have a message from Mrs. Garwood," he said pompously. "She says for me to tell you that it will be all right for you to remain with your friend until she is better. But that she hopes you will come the first minute she improves. And your salary will be $20 a week."

Noel promised that she would do so. She went back in the house thinking again how strange it was that Mrs. Garwood had refused to have her on two occasions and now she was offering every inducement to her to take the place. It was strange, but flattering too, after all the trouble Noel had had in finding a job.

About 5 the nurse came on regular duty She had only had a few hours' sleep, but she looked fresh and rested. She made Noel go across the hall to a room which Mrs. Blarsom had grudgingly provided and rest or an hour or so before going to work.

When Noel awakened, she saw that it was 8 o'clock. With a sense of guilt, she dressed quickly. She would be late of course, which would make it a very unpropitious time to ask a favor of Luigi. She had it to do, however.

By the time she reached the Peacock she had steeled her nerves for the ordeal. Nick was standing in the entrance. He had been standing there for quite some time, in fact, looking up and down the street for Noel, fearing that she didn't intend coming. Noel of course, didn't know that, for when Nick saw her stepping hurriedly down the street, he drew back inside the entrance.

Noel stopped when she saw him standing there. "I'm sorry I'm late," she began, and started to explain the reason, but Nick said gruffly, "Well, don't let it happen again" and walked down the dance floor.

Noel followed him. "Nick, I—I want to talk to you a minute, please."

Nick stopped, a pale light coming into his eyes. "Oh, you want to talk to me," he said with elaborate sarcasm. "I'm flattered. You have seemed to avoid me on every possible occasion. And now—"

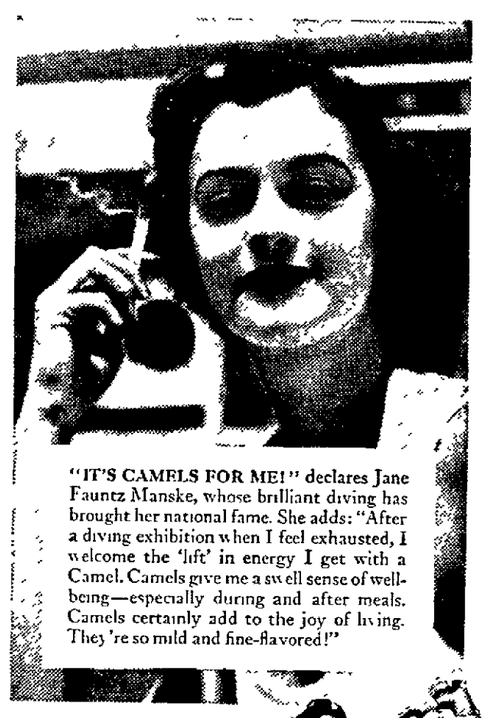
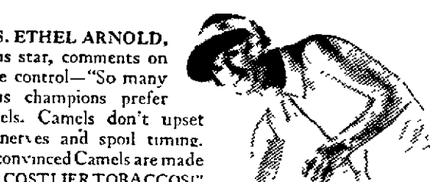
ONE SMOKER TELLS ANOTHER:

"GET A LIFT WITH A CAMEL!"



"IT'S CAMELS FOR ME!" declares Jane Fauntz Manske, whose brilliant diving has brought her national fame. She adds: "After a diving exhibition when I feel exhausted, I welcome the 'lift' in energy I get with a Camel. Camels give me a swell sense of well-being—especially during and after meals. Camels certainly add to the joy of living. They're so mild and fine-flavored!"

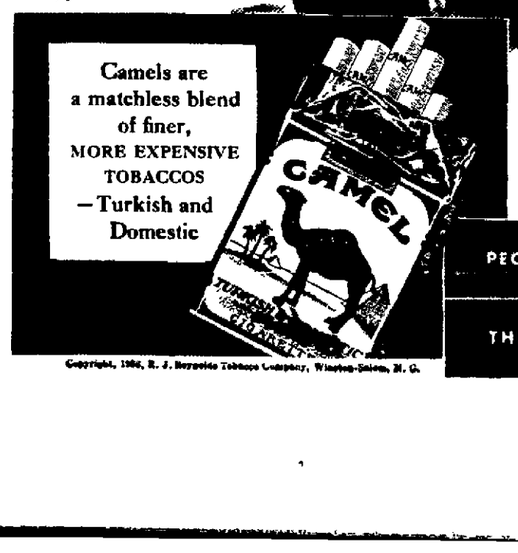
MARSHALL WAYNE, Olympic platform diving champion, speaks decidedly for Camels. "After a strenuous competition I get a 'lift' with a Camel," he says. "And Camels sure help my digestion to hum along too."



MRS. ETHEL ARNOLD, tennis star, comments on nerve control—"So many tennis champions prefer Camels. Camels don't upset the nerves and spoil timing. I'm convinced Camels are made from COSTLIER TOBACCOS!"

SWIMMING RECORDS FALL before Lenore Kight Wingard. Lenore remarks: "Camels never tire my taste or get on my nerves. When I feel taut after a meet, a Camel helps ease the tension Another thing—Camels are so mild—they never irritate my throat."

AQUAPLANING IS FUN but it's exhausting too. That's one reason why Gloria Wheeden says: "When I feel d-r-a-g-g-y, a Camel gives my energy a swell 'lift.' And Camels are mild, delicate, yet full-flavored."



Camels are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS —Turkish and Domestic

DOWN THE HUDSON—Albany to New York—in 3½ hours Clayton Bishop, outboard motor racing star, did it. He says: "Camels never ruffle my nerves, and they give my energy a swell lift."

THEY ARE THE LARGEST-SELLING CIGARETTE IN AMERICA

RALPH GULDAHL, twice winner of U. S. Open golf crown, says: "One thing about Camels is the 'lift' in energy they give. I've smoked Camels 10 years and I've never known them to jangle my nerves. I appreciate Camels."

Consoling thought: Unless you make a rut for yourself you won't get in it.

The mere fact that feeble-minded institutions are overcrowded is no excuse for issuing drivers' licenses to the waiting list.

There's an old saying about not looking a gift horse in the mouth—but a newer idea seems to be that beneficiaries should select the horse.

Better Distribution Needed.

GREAT ACHIEVEMENTS of the next decade, says Governor Lehman of New York, will be in solving the problem of distribution.

This is the challenge of the present, he adds, both in agriculture and in industry. "Our very success in the field of efficient production has brought us face to face with the great problem of efficient merchandizing or distribution."

It is a hard problem, complicated by the elaborate machinery and methods we have created. A good many of the present arrangements, the governor foresees, will have to be scrapped. Care must be taken, in the transition, that rights and interests created in good faith, for a system no longer adequate, will not unduly hurt.

The change foreseen will probably take more than the decade allotted for it by the governor, but it will come. It must come, if the economic system we have known, or anything like it, is to survive.

Liquor Revenues and Old Age Pensions.

ANNOUNCEMENT that old age pensions in Ohio are likely to be reduced unless liquor revenues show a large increase is probably rather confusing to those trustful souls who believed that return of the legalized liquor traffic was for the purpose of inducing moderation and supplying an existing demand rather than creating additional addicts.

That the state liquor monopoly has been used to play the political game needs no further proof than is provided by additions made to the list of employes of state liquor stores just before the primaries—more employes to handle LESS BUSINESS.

That such a worthy expenditure as the payment of old age pensions should be dependent on liquor revenues is in itself an indictment of methods of administration of state government. This money might better be allocated to the construction and upkeep of additional penal institutions and asylums for the insane and feeble-minded, in the need for which the excessive use of intoxicants is recognized as a largely contributing factor.

Conduct of the sale-by-the-glass liquor business, under the state monopoly system, has been such as to arouse public resentment to the point of invoking local option elections in many districts. Invasion of residential sections; beer permits used as a cloak for illegal trafficking in hard liquor; bawdy entertainment as a lure to night clubs; Sunday sale of beer under the ridiculous pretense that it is not intoxicating—all of these things, coupled with habitual violation of regulatory laws, tend to make the present status of the liquor business so precarious that it is none too soon to be looking about for some other source of revenues from which to pay old age pensions—in case liquor revenues show further decline under less obnoxious handling.

North American Peace.

EUROPEANS, considering the Canadian-American relation, says Prof. James T. Shotwell of Columbia university, might expect two or three things which they would not find.

In the first place, they might expect an alliance or entente guaranteeing peace. Europe places great but unjustified reliance on such things. Nothing of the sort exists here, and no one really familiar with Canadian or American history or temperament would consider it either necessary or possible. In the second place, they probably would expect some joint political doctrine shaped to preserve our peaceful neighborliness. That, too, is lacking and not needed. Finally, they might expect an institution especially created for the purpose of insuring peace; but the two governments handle through normal channels, as they arise, any problems that need adjustment or compromise. No special tribunal is required for this.

On what then is the unique Canadian-American relationship based? The dominating principle he finds to be "that of common prosperity and of constructive statesmanship developing the arts of peace."

Operatic Losses.

PEOPLE who like symphony orchestras and attend performances or listen to them on the radio should appreciate their blessings. Such music seldom pays expenses.

The manager of the Detroit orchestra reports that in 24 years of operation it has always lost money. The total cost has been more than $6,000,000 and of that sum the orchestra has earned only a little more than $2,000,000. Thus patrons have paid one third of the cost.

More than half of the deficits have been met by twelve Detroit families. The rest has been spread over a large number of donors. Most of the 8,000,000 or more who bought tickets have been getting about three times as much as they paid for.

Those who have done the paying say it's worth the money. But surely, in a democracy, the expenses of such entertainment should be spread around a little more.

Back to the Farm.

PERHAPS the most wholesome economic movement in America today is the one back to the farm. It continues strongly, according to a recent census survey.

Thus the unbalance created by the drift to the cities in the recent 1920's is being remedied. Farm realty values have held up in spite of bad business conditions.

And surprisingly enough, one of the largest groups of rural land-buyers is composed of auto trailer people. Most of them, it develops, are not at all the irresponsible vagrants that so many people imagine, but already own property and buy more in their ramblings.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Rumors of war and internal disorders are reputed to scare travelers away so we checked a tourist bureau here to find out what was happening about Mexican and European travel.

A brown-haired girl with eyes like this and that took us in tow for a brief lecture on travel and if it hadn't been for our own deeply rooted reserve we might have bought a ticket for Timbuctoo. But anyway, what she said about Mexican and European travel was this:

Ships bound for Mexico from the Atlantic seaboard are billed to capacity. They can make no reservations during August, and even September is selling out fast.

"Haven't people been reading the newspapers about Mexican labor troubles, and an almost revolution of a prominent rancher and his men, and seizure of oil and farm lands?"

"Sure," says she, "and they want to go there nevertheless."

Then we reminded her with regard to Europe that August was a bad month for European wars but she said the tourists didn't seem to mind. Bookings for Europe were later this year than last, but that she explained was because the coronation last year started them off earlier.

People wanting to go to Europe now don't ask any questions about war possibilities. In 1914 an awful lot of Americans went to Europe in spite of current war scares which they forgot to ask about. Some of them had a pesky time getting back home.

* * *

Corn Tempest.

WHILE there is yet no war in Europe (outside of Spain) there almost was a war in Department of Agriculture when officials mixed signals on deciding what the corn supply was to be.

A lot depended on the amount of corn. If the estimated total of this year's crop plus the carryover from last year exceeded certain limits, an election would have to be held in the corn belt to determine whether farmers would be compelled to lock up part of their crop to protect prices on the rest.

The Department, with a smattering of rebellion on its hands in the corn belt already, didn't want to hold a referendum on whether to impose marketing quotas. Some officials feared farmers would defeat the proposal, and thus throw down the farm law in its first real test.

* * *

The Winner.

THE Department and the corn crop were like two boys spoiling for a fight. One says: "If you cross this line I'll hit you."

Early this year the Department says: If the estimated corn supply (crop plus carryover) passes 2,773,000,000 bushels, we must call for a marketing quota referendum.

Well, the estimated crop and carryover passed that level and the Department, backing away, then said: If the supply passes 2,825,000,000 bushels, we surely must call for a marketing quota. That was in July. And the estimated supply did pass that figure. In August, the Department, by law, couldn't back off any farther. It said: If the supply passes 2,913,000,000 bushels, we can't escape asking marketing quotas.

There arose the hitch. One bureau of the Department said the carryover would be 350,000,000 bushels as a minimum. That would have forced the total above 2,913,000,000—the deadline. Almost in a fury higher Department officials contradicted the 350,000,000 bushel estimate, insisting it would be only 320,000,000. That brought the total estimated supply down to 2,886,000,000 bushels and saved the day. No quota referendum was needed.

The Human Side of the News

—By EDWIN C. HILL

THE nudists are loose again. I came along the fringe of one of their quaint colonies a day or so ago up in Westchester County. The mosquitoes seemed to be enjoying themselves more than the nudists, so far as I could see. There was a lot of squatting and slapping going on, and those earnest swats and slaps served to call attention to over-developed regions which even a nudist shouldn't trot around.

There's seldom anything beautiful about the unclothed human body. Not that beautiful bodies do not exist, for they do, but their fortunate possessors evidently don't frequent nudist colonies. There are too many protuberant stomachs, too many bowed or bandied legs, too many knotty and bony knees, far too many other unsightly defects to establish much of a standard for beauty in the modern human race—a race which has almost forgotten what made beauty—use of the outdoors, as the Greeks used the outdoors—and which hires men to play for it instead of doing its playing itself.

But the cult of nudity seems to be increasing just as any fad seems to be able to spread in this fad-loving country of ours. There are said to be 150,000 nudists in the United States, and there is even an official nudist magazine.

* * *

ADDICTS assert proudly that there will be a million "in the raw" in a few years more. I doubt it. There are certain reasons why I doubt it. The woman doesn't live and breathe who doesn't like to wear pretty clothes; and even if they are not pretty, there is some strange and kindly magic of the gods which transmutes her vision and makes them seem pretty to her at least. Will the ladies give up their fine fixings? Jamais, as we say in that dear old Paris.

Two other reasons are frost and sun. The human hide is not suited to complete and continual exposure to American winters and American summers. And there is an innate shyness in most people which, in the end, will baffle all this nudist faddism. Besides, nudism is funny—and few things survive which are targets for the raucous laughter of the crowd.

* * *

MORE than nudists are wistfully seeking earthly paradises in these tumultuous times when high taxes have everybody by the neck, James Norman Hall and his clever literary partner find their paradise in the South Seas, in Tahiti, where they have constructed very readable novels. Bali beckons, and so do a hundred islets of the sunlit seas. Many people living today on fractions of their former incomes would like to flee from landlords and bills, from unemployment and depression statistics.

The reported popularity in Wall Street in past months of two travel books—one telling how to live on the Spanish Island of Majorca for as little as $3 a week; the other maintaining the tropical ease of a South Sea Island can be acquired for only $10 a month—indicates the wistful and secret ambition of many a financier, not to mention doctors, lawyers, merchants.

Happily, there are almost enough paradises to go around. Then there is gentle Samoa and lovely Guam, where Uncle Sam flies his flag, and the coral isles of the Bahamas where many Americans, Lou Wasey and John McCutcheon, among them, own tiny domains surrounded by turquois seas. And a writer in Asia recommends Peiping for those who would live well and cheaply.

She tells us that sitting room, bedroom and bath with meals can be secured in the best hotels in Peiping for $50 a month in American money. A member of the American Legation staff has been renting a beautiful house, unfurnished, for $20 a month. The house has a drawing room 20x25 feet, a dining room of the same size, a large bedroom, a "foreign" bathroom and, across the wide courtyard, a guest room, kitchen and servant's quarters.

This contented householder pays his cook $4 a month. He entertains lavishly because of his legation connections, and his total expenses, rent, food, servants and all incidents, come to less than $100 gold a month. Two persons can keep house in Peiping modestly for $50 a month, more lavishly for $75, and $100 a month will keep them like lords of the manor. Living is correspondingly cheap in other parts of China. If it weren't for the war, we might say "On to Peiping!"

Can Tuberculosis Be "Caught"?

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE QUESTION of whether tuberculosis can be caught from a consumptive is not as simple as it may seem on first sight. The theories on the matter have gone through a number of changes.

A hundred years ago, when very little was known about the cause of tuberculosis, the idea was that it was not contagious at all. Then the French physician, Villemin, pointed out that if a case of consumption were brought into a hospital ward, several other cases would develop there. He was an army physician and he put his conclusions this way: "The consumptive soldier is just as much a danger to his fellows in the regiment, as a sheep with anthrax is to the rest of the herd."

When the cause of tuberculosis — the tubercle bacillus—was discovered, opportunity was afforded for more intensive study of early cases. The conclusions arrived at were that tuberculosis probably always begins in infancy or very early life. It goes through a certain stage of development in childhood. Childhood tuberculosis is entirely different from adult tuberculosis.

Catches It From Adult.

The child usually catches tuberculosis from an adult in the family who has an open unsuspected case of tuberculosis of the lungs. The course of the disease depends on the amount of immunity that can be developed—most often the condition gets well in childhood and leaves nothing but a scar. Sometimes it goes on and develops consumption.

The question of whether an adult can catch the disease from another is not entirely settled. One view states flatly that nobody catches tuberculosis after childhood. But there are others who disagree. Myers, for instance, studied groups of medical students and nurses in training—groups that are likely to be exposed to patients with tuberculosis—and found that they did become infected in a far larger percentage than that of the general population.

So the safest thing is to avoid exposure. This especially is true of infants. They frequently are infected by some old member of the household, who has had a chronic bronchitis for years. At least, that is what it is called. Really when an examination is made, it turns out the person has had tuberculosis unsuspected for many years.

Jeopardizing Labor's Advances.

Bitter factionalism and strife within the union movement is making the friends of organized labor more disillusioned every week, and if long continued is destined to have a demoralizing effect on rank and file union workers.

The split between the A. F. of L. and CIO grows wider and less remediable as its leaders move farther apart in viewpoint and policy. The United Auto Workers is now busily tearing itself apart, weakening itself just as all labor has weakened itself by the CIO-A. F. of L. breach.

Labor has made tremendous advances in the last few years. These have come largely because people have at last realized that everybody gets along better when peaceful, orderly bargaining exists — bargaining in which both sides recognize their responsibilities not only to those they directly represent but to society as a whole.

For America, after all, is still sold on the idea that capital and labor are traveling in the same direction and will get there faster by co-operating than by quarreling.

When labor leaders jeopardize all labor's advances by throwing monkey wrenches into organizational machinery, they are playing fast and loose with an investment built up with long years of hard work — that of favorable public opinion and employers cooperation and confidence—Minneapolis Star.

Young America Says—

"Buy America!" Should Apply to Movie Talent as Well as Merchandise.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

IS AMERICAN ART GOOD ENOUGH FOR AMERICAN AUDIENCES, SHOULD WE EXCLUDE ALL OTHER?

Lately I've received a deluge of letters protesting that we should. Here's a typical protest from Rosalin Waldman of Los Angeles. Says she—

"LISTEN AMERICA!

"Should we sit back and watch foreigners take our places in the American Theater and Motion Pictures? Are we not every bit as talented? Their performers sometimes are fine. Granted! But our producers spend millions training these actors for debuts that should by rights be made by Americans. Has it not been proved over and again that the majority of these people are losses? They are constantly being sent back to their native lands with our money to be spent benefiting foreign countries.

"We are all aware that our releases in Europe are censored and cut. Do we restrict their films as drastically? No! They are welcomed and cheered.

"This is not a hue and cry against foreign actors—merely an appeal to our industry to recognize the fact that American-made performers are clever and talented enough to equal, if not surpass, our distant rivals. Why, it has even come to the point where talented Americans are forced to pass themselves off as foreigners before they are given a chance.

"Is this not a drastic situation when real Americans are forced to resort to these measures? Wake up, America! Demand recognition and rights to make and spend your money in your own United States!"

Rosalin Waldman—age 22,
Los Angeles, Calif.

This is your game-of-marbles, not mine, youngster . . . and you'll undoubtedly have many a cheer or boo for Rosalin, according to your taste.

* * *

"Dear Elsie Robinson—

"Why can't we have a PLACEMENT BUREAU for the benefit of fresh college graduates? IF THE HOPE OF AMERICA IS IN ITS YOUTH, THEN GIVE INTELLIGENT YOUTH SOMETHING TO HOPE FOR!

"Youth aid need not be confined to certain classes. If this buncombe about civilization going to the bow-wows because the lower class is populating the earth is true, then why not help the self-respecting university man get established in his profession so he can marry his equally self-respecting best girl and establish a self-respecting American home and family? America needs LEADERS—broad-minded men and women who have learned to think constructively and independently. Let natural leaders lead!"

Arthur G. McComas—age 22.
Elk City, Oklahoma.
($10 prize winner)

Reply—"LET NATURAL LEADERS LEAD" . . . I agree with you, Arthur. But how much of a "natural leader" is a young man who lets a Placement Bureau do his leading for him? Isn't one requirement of success in any age that—WE ROLL OUR OWN? Constructive help? Sure. But perhaps we'd get it sooner if we didn't do so much DESTRUCTIVE WHINING!

* * *

AND last, but by no means least, is this plea from Mildred M. Danell of Hanford, Calif., to "see America first!"

"Dear Miss Robinson—

"Why must people race off to Europe when our own country affords more beautiful scenery and points of interest? Where can you find greater beauty than in Yellowstone Park, Grand Canyon, Redwoods of California, and the majestic forests of the Northwest? Here also we have many lovely caves, mountains, lakes and deserts. For historic interest we have old Indian villages, missions and forts. America is the grandest country in the world. It has everything."

Mildred M. Danell—age 23.
Hanford, Calif.
($5 prize winner)

That's real patriotism, Mildred. And remember this—you who haven't the money or time to hit the winding trail—YOU MAY SEE SUCH BEAUTY AND NOBILITY AS YOU'LL NEVER FORGET, MY DEARS, IF YOU'LL BUT STAND AT SOME CROWDED CORNER AND WATCH AMERICA GO BY . . . WITH LAUGHTER AND COURAGE AND THE LOVE OF THE GENTLE JESUS IN ITS WORK-WORN, FRIENDLY HANDS!

Man About Manhattan

Looks Over New Orleans

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW ORLEANS—Roark Bradford lives in a picturesque but hard to find studio-apartment in the heart of the Old French Quarter. The telephone directory lists his address as 719 Toulouse street, but there is no house at this number. There is only a narrow gate, blocking a dim, retreating passageway.

This gate is always locked, but there is a bell and if you ring it a Negro girl from the sugarcane country will thrust her head out of a window far back in the passageway and inquire who is there. And if you tell her you have an appointment with Roark Bradford she will push another button, opening the gate and admitting you to the passageway.

* * *

YOU must not be surprised at anything in New Orleans, of course, but you can not help an exclamation of surprise when you come to the end of this passageway. It opens on a courtyard, or patio, where banana trees are growing and altheas are blooming, and there is a fountain, and the courtyard is littered with boxing gloves, a bow and arrow, a rocking horse, a couple of cap pistols, and similar baggage necessary to the happiness of a six-year-old growing boy.

This boy is Roark's young son and—"We think he's a pretty smart kid," Bradford grins, padding out into the court, wearing careless slacks, a white shirt open at the throat, smoking a cigarette.

So this is Roark Bradford, ex-west Tennessean come to New Orleans, ex-newspaper reporter, author of "Old Man Adam and His Chillun," which Marc Connelly made into "Green Pastures." This is Roark Bradford, author of "The Three-Headed Angel"—a cotton planter, a recognized authority on Negro dialects.

* * *

"COME on in the house—it's too damned hot out here," Roark says, leading the way into cool, dim rooms which are a confusion of cushioned chairs, books, and phonograph records.

It is a perfect setting for Bradford, who is stocky and thick-shouldered, deeply-voiced and slightly bald.

"I dunno whether I like New Orleans or not," he says. "Yes, I guess I like it all right. I'm not doing much now. Working on some short stories, and a novel, and there's a musical play that ought to hit New York in the fall. Music's by Jacques Wolfe, who is best known, perhaps, for his Shortnin' Bread, which Lawrence Tibbett and James Melton like to sing. The musical's about John Henry, a legendary Negro character who is very strong and runs away but he gets into trouble when he runs into mechanical competition."

I asked him about his plantation, Little Bee Bend, which is in North Louisiana, and he explained he had recently returned from there after tending to the sad duty of burying his overseer, who had died unexpectedly.

For the next few weeks or months, he said, he intended to "sit around until I get going again—the work's coming slowly and I've run into a couple of dead ends. I don't like to force things. When I write I work very rapidly or not at all. Might go fishing in a day or so. Might go back to the plantation and ride horses and louse around."

The last I saw of him he was standing in his courtyard, surrounded by rooms that were built in 1781, saying to his son: "Richard, go get your daddy a match, and hurry now." And Richard hurried.

A Farmer's Diary

Roadside Business.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

FOR many summers my wife and I sold home-made ice cream at a roadside stand on our farm along the main highway. Our business place, its furnishings and signs were all home-made. Our overhead was small . . . so, from a financial standpoint, were our profits. Yet we made hosts of friends, who came back every year and whose coming added to our own fullness of living.

One day a car with a Texas license drove up with two men. They were tired and thirsty. They wore wide hats, and on a belt the younger man carried a six-shooter.

"Is it true that you make this ice cream yourself? . . . Then lead us to it."

They ate and chatted. . . . of roads and toll bridges they had crossed . . . of Texas ranch and roundup . . . of annual rattlesnake hunts, with pronged sticks for weapons. The older man showed on his knotty arm the purple scar a rattlesnake had left. "I thought I'd lose the arm," he said. "I was lucky that time."

"Is it true," asked the other man, "that the highways up North are cluttered up with gangsters? Is it safe to travel at night, do you think?" We told him, with a smile, we thought he needn't worry.

A woman with three children drove up in an old car. She bought milk and bread and hurried out with it. Her car bore a Maryland license. She was headed west.

"Going far?" we asked her.

"To California. My husband is out there . . . ill. Do you have some good water handy?"

We filled the thermos jug she proffered us, and brought a "sample" cone for each of the youngsters. She filled her tank with gas and drove away. Three little hands waved goodbye from the rear windows.

Day after day, car after car, they came . . . college presidents and prizefighters, salesmen and tramps, truck drivers, musical troupers, high school and college students. They told each other. Once we had a movie director from Hollywood. A salesman had told him of our place, at a New York hotel.

Tourists are so human.

PHYSICIAN, TAXI DRIVER JAILED AS KIDNAPERS

Police Charge 'Affair' With Doctor's Wife Resulted In 'Ride' For Ex-U. S. Officer.

(By Associated Press)

OLYMPIA, Wash.—Dr. K. W. Berry, 54, prominent in state capital society, and a taxi driver were in jail here today charged with kidnaping and assault of Irving Baker, former coast guard officer, who, said Prosecutor S. W. Troy, had had an "affair" with the doctor's pretty young wife.

Troy said Baker, 37-year-old automobile dealer, had identified Dr. Berry and James Reddick, 27, as two of a gang who seized him Friday night, took him to an abandoned quarry, beat him with knotted belts and attempted to emasculate him with a pair of pliers.

Both Admit Charge.

Reddick confessed, Troy said, that he drove the car in which Baker was abducted and that he was paid by Dr. Berry. The prosecutor said Dr. Berry admitted beating Baker.

An "affair" between Baker and Mrs. Berry, 27, University of Washington graduate and Dr. Berry's third wife, led to the trouble, Troy said.

"We have established that a July Fourth affair between Baker and Mrs. Berry caused bad blood between the two men.

He said "the assault was a direct outgrowth of the holiday affair."

A statewide search was under way for Bill McCaloon, 50, former Montesano, Wash., policeman, charged with second degree assault in connection with the case. Two others were held for questioning.

Baker was taken from his home by two men who posed as officers with a warrant for his arrest. Two other men awaited them in the car in which he was taken to the quarry.

Dr. Berry and Reddick both were charged with first degree kidnaping—maximum penalty for which is death—and first degree assault. They were held under $10,000 bail each.

Baker, former coast guard cutter commander, retired last spring as senior grade lieutenant. He has two children, a boy, 12, and a girl, 6.

1,000 HEAR CONCERT, ATTEND DEDICATION OF BAND PLATFORM

Nearly 1,000 persons attended the weekly outdoor concert Sunday evening at North Lake park during which dedicatory exercises for the newly constructed band platform at the park were held.

The platform was dedicated and formally presented to the city by Atty. Stuart Cramer, one of the original members of the North Lake Park association, sponsor of the Sunday evening concerts. Mayor Claude M. Hunter accepted the platform in behalf of the city.

The new stand, made of concrete, is 24 feet square and was built by funds provided by the association, and replaces an old wooden stand. It is located along the edge of the lake near the boathouse.

Music during the evening was furnished by a 35-piece accordion band directed by Eugene Smart. Featured during the evening was four-year-old Lincoln Adkinson, jr., colored, in a singing, dancing and baton swinging act. Young Adkinson is the drum major and leader of the Kindergarten rhythm band at the Friendly House.

Another baton twirling act featured Richard Dent of Mansfield, and Bud Sprang of Crestline. Dent won the state high school drum major contest this spring at Oberlin. Sprang will serve as assistant drum major at Baldwin-Wallace college where he will enter this fall. Dent plans to enter Ohio State university.

This marks the sixth year of the weekly concerts at the park under Smart's direction. Two more will be presented during the present season. This year's concerts have been planned by R. A. Herring, president of the association, and Otis Sowash, O. L. Henderson and J. E. Fendrick, members of the association entertainment committee.

DENIES O.P.S. SALE REPORTS

President Of Company Informs Mansfield Official Rumors Are 'Unfounded.'

Rumors of disintegration of the Cities Service company, involving the sale of the Ohio Public Service company to the Commonwealth and Southern corporation have been termed "unfounded," F. A. Chamberlain, vice president and division manager of the Ohio Public Service company, said today.

Chamberlain said he had talked to T. O. Kennedy, Cleveland, vice president and general manager of the firm when New York dispatches concerning the "sale" were called to his attention, and said that Kennedy had told him reports relative to the sale of the Ohio Public Service company "were untrue."

Commonwealth and Southern controls the Ohio Edison Electric utilities operating in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Indiana and Illinois.

Kennedy informed Chamberlain that Cities Service and Commonwealth had conferred on the possible sale of Michigan properties but not O. P. S.

The deal is being considered, it is reported, as the result of provisions of the new federal holding company act. Reports said Cities Service has indicated its intention of disposing of its electric subsidiaries in order to confine itself to the petroleum business, a step which would exempt the company from registration provisions of the act.

The bride was given in marriage by her guardian, Mr. Niciti. For her wedding, the bride wore a white satin gown made Princess style with long train. It was fashioned with long pointed sleeves, which were puffed at the top and caught with shirrings. Self covered buttons fastened the waist from neck to waistline down the back and a stand-up collar was held in place by rushing of the same material.

Her long veil of bridal illusion was finished at the end with trimming of Chantilly lace and was caught to the head with a cap of the lace made with crown effect. She wore white satin sandals and carried a fan shaped bouquet of white gardenias and white gladioli.

Miss Mary Malotto, wearing peach color embroidered silk crepe, with full skirt and Eaton jacket effect, was maid of honor. She wore silver sandals and a silver crown on her hair. Her flowers were peach color asters with summer lilac tied with orchid ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Misses Jeanette Cross, Rosemary Niciti and Concetta Niciti of Mansfield and Mary Trombino, of Canton. The latter three were nieces of the groom.

They wore dresses made alike and similar to those of the maid of honor. Miss Cross and Miss Rosemary Niciti wore azure blue satin and Miss Concetta Niciti and Miss Trombino wore pink satin. They carried fan shaped bouquets of pink asters and summer lilacs tied with pink and blue ribbons.

Philip Moleno of Crestline served as best man, and ushers were three brothers of the groom, Gordon, Michael and Joseph Carpinelli and James Spitale, all of Canton.

Mrs. Niciti wore a street length frock of pink silk crepe with white accessories and a corsage of pink asters.

Immediately following the ceremony the couple and immediate relatives and a few close friends left for Canton where a wedding dinner was served at the home of the groom's parents at 523 Madison street.

The couple will reside in Canton at 525 Madison street. The groom is employed at the Canton Laundry and Dry Cleaning company.

STATE WORKERS 'GAVE' $170,000 TO DAVEY FUND

Account Shows Governor's Primary Campaign Most Costly In History.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — State employes contributed more than two-thirds of Gov. Martin L. Davey's $250,000 fund for his unsuccessful third-term primary campaign, an analysis of the Davey state committee's report showed today.

The committee reported total expenses of $248,000, unpaid bills of $25,000 and a deficit of about $23,000. Expenditures of other committees and Davey personallly raised the total cost of his campaign, most expensive in primary history, to about $286,000.

Contributions of state employes by departments were reported for a total of $152,000. Department heads and cabinet officers reporting individually raised the total to $170,000.

Five Per Cent Per Month.

A grand jury which indicted 18 Davey aides for soliciting contributions from civil service workers estimated the campaign committee might raise more than a million dollars by assessing each employe five per cent of his annual salary.

The state's monthly payroll averages about $3,000,000, indicating the Davey committee got about five per cent on a monthly instead of annual basis.

Highway department employes piled up the largest total of contributions, more than $57,000, the liquor control department showed a total of $28,000, unemployment compensation commission $10,000 and department of commerce $20,000, including a half-dozen large divisions.

Reports of county Davey organizations showed that nearly 25,000 precinct workers were hired at $5 each through funds supplied by the state committee, about three workers for each of the 8,600 polling places.

Approximately $125,000 spent for this purpose was the committee's largest expenditures. The governor's Kent office spent about $30,000 on direct mail campaigns while radio time also marked up a large total.

DEMANDS DEATH

U. S. Prosecutor to Ask High Penalty for Kidnapers.

ST. PAUL, Minn.—(UNS)—The death penalty will be sought for the two captured kidnapers of a socially prominent St. Louis girl and her escort, it was announced here.

The pair were held in bonds of $100,000 each on charges of violation of the Lindbergh kidnap law. Otis James Meredith, 21, of Lynwood, Ark., may never live to face trial. He was seriously wounded in the back when he tried to escape the G-man trap in which his accomplice, John Couch, 23, was also captured.

The death penalty can be invoked, federal prosecutors said, because the alleged kidnapers struck Daniel C. Fahey jr., and manhandled Miss Peggy Gross, 23, after driving off from St. Louis with the couple and bringing them to Minnesota.

The school board earlier in the year adopted the project of building a centralized elementary school to cost $100,000, $45,000 of which was to come from PWA funds.

Placed on the ballots, the measure failed to secure the 65 per cent approval needed, even though the PWA grant had already been secured.

Biscuit Dough for Canapes

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
(AP Feature Service Writer)

Staid old biscuit dough is going frivolous these days.

It's being made into all sorts of fascinating and tasty little appetizers and canapes for cocktail parties. It also is being widely used in cases for creamed or buttered foods.

With a little ingenuity you can use biscuit dough during any course of the meal.

Appetizers First.

Let's start with appetizers.

Try spreading a thin layer of biscuit dought with any savory combination of minced meat, fish, fowl or ham. Make it into rolls about an inch in diameter. Cut off half-inch slices and bake them. Serve while hot.

Spread another layer of dough with a sandwich filling of liver paste, minced sardines, creamed cheese or tuna. Fold the dough half over Cut it into small squares or diamonds, press the edges together with a fork, then bake and serve hot.

To make an appetizer with a crusty top, spread a thin layer of dough with grated cheese mixed with salad dressing and a little minced onion, parsley and grated horseradish. Cut into varied shapes and serve hot with soups or salads.

Add grated raw carrots, minced parsley or a little celery salt to the biscuit dough itself and cut it into fancy shapes.

For a hot bread to serve with the meal, make pinwheels. Spread biscuit dough with butter, brown sugar and cinnamon. Form it into rolls two inches in diameter Cut off one-inch slices and bake. You'll have cinnamon rolls like those made from yeast dough. You can vary the flavor by adding nuts, dates, candied fruits or raisins.

Some Coffee Bread.

Coffe bread is simple to make. Just add a little sugar to the dough itself and spread the top with the brown sugar mixture suggested for pinwheels.

Cheese biscuits are old standbys. To make them merely add half a cup of grated cheese to your regular dough or sprinkle the grated cheese over the top after it has been rolled out. Shape the dough into small biscuits, bars or triangles. If you want a really subtle flavor combine several cheeses.

Now for the main course.

Fit biscuit dough into muffin pans and bake it to form shells. Then fill them with creamed vegetables, meat or fish mixtures Or you can use bits of dough to cover tiny pot pies and meat shortcakes.

You can use up leftover bits of dough in "pastries." Shape your dough into six-inch squares. Cover the squares with left-over chopped, cooked meat or vegetables. Moisten with gravy or cream and add seasonings. Shape into triangles and bake. Serve hot—with a savory sauce or gravy.

There are lots of ways in which biscuit dough may be used in desserts.

Take cobblers. The biscuit dough is used as a topping for sweetened fruits or berries. For shortcakes, the dough is made into small forms having berries or fruits as a filling.

Fruit Dumplings.

Filled fruit rolls are general favorites Spread thick sweet berry or fruit sauce over rolled-out dough. Roll up the dough and place it in a greased loaf pan. Bake it for 30 minutes in a moderate oven. Sprinkle the top with brown sugar and cinnamon After five minutes' more baking unmold it and serve it warm—with hard sauce or whipped cream.

Biscuit dough may also be used in place of cake batter for upside-down desserts.

And don't forget fruit dumplings. Put fresh or canned fruit or berries on six-inch squares of thin biscuit dough Bring the edges of the dough up and over the fruit. Pinch in place and fit into greased muffin pans or a large shallow pan. Cover with sugar syrup and bake for 35 minutes in a moderate oven.

SAUSAGE TURNOVERS

Roll biscuit dough into a thin sheet Cut it into large rounds. Put a link of sausage on each round. Then bring the edges of the dough together—and press them with a fork Do not completely wrap the sausages, however. Bake in a hot oven.

SAUSAGE APPETIZERS

Cut out small rounds of biscuit dough. Fasten a cocktail sausage to each round with a strip of dough. Bake in hot oven.

CREOLE SAUCE
(May Be Served Over Sausage Turnovers)

- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 1 chopped onion
- 1 clove garlic
- 1 tablespoon green pepper
- ½ cup sliced mushrooms
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 2 cups tomatoes
- 1 bay leaf
- 4 cloves
- Sprig of parsley
- Salt
- Sugar
- Pepper

Heat olive oil and cook onion, garlic, green pepper and mushrooms in it for five minutes. Remove garlic. Stir flour into the mixture and allow to brown. Add tomatoes and seasonings Mix well and cook over a low fire for about 20 minutes.

Standard food measurements: Two cups of solid fat equal one pound, as do two cups of granulaeed sugar, two and two-thirds cups of confectioners' sugar, two and two-thirds cups of dark brown sugar, three and three-quarters cups of regular flour or four cups of pastry flour. Three teaspoons equal one tablespoon. Sixteen tablespoons equal one cup. Two cups make a pint.

Store salad oil in a dry, cold place. Keep coffee, tea, suar, baking powder, spices, soda, cream of tartar and cereals tightly covered in a dry, dark place.

Uncrystalized Syrup

Add a pinch of soda for each two cups of sugar to help keep syrups from crystalizing. Sprinkle the soda on top while the syrup is cooking and don't stir it.

Egg tests: Fresh eggs will sink when they are placed in a pan of cold water. Held in front of a candle flame in a dark room they will appear clear.

To Loosen Trays

Never use a sharp instrument to loosen the ice trays in your refrigerator; you might puncture the coils. Take a dull instrument and use it as a wedge under the rim. When you replace the trays, wipe them with a cloth. It's the freezing of the excess water that makes trays stick.

Sauce for Meat

Try serving horseradish sauce on short ribs of beef, baked ham or a pot roast. Add two tablespoons of prepared horseradish, ane tablespoon of chopped parsley and a fourth of a teaspoon of Worcestershire to each cup of cream sauce. The combination is very tasty.

Apple Sauce Help

In making apple sauce, slice your apples, cook them in a little water until they are soft, then add the sugar. If you add the sugar at first you may need to put in more later and the apples are likely to become hard.

AND WITH CERTO YOU CAN MAKE A WHOLE BATCH OF JAM OR JELLY IN JUST 15 MINUTES AFTER THE FRUIT IS PREPARED!

Half Again More Glasses, Too ...When You Use Certo!

YES, half again more glasses—when you make jam and jelly with Certo! For you boil the fruit juice only ½ minute for jellies—one minute for jams. None of the juice has a chance to boil away, so you average 11 glasses instead of 7! And with Certo it takes you just 15 minutes, after your fruit is prepared, to make, pour and paraffin a whole batch of jam or jelly!

SO MUCH BETTER FLAVOR! That short boil saves fruit flavor, too—gives you better tasting jams and jellies! The delicious natural flavor stays right in the fruit, instead of boiling off in steam. And there is no "boiled-down" taste!

NO FEAR OF FAILURE! Certo makes all fruits jell perfectly . . . even strawberries and pineapple. No more uncertainty about jam and jelly making!
